Death Brings Trial In County Court To Sudden End

Defendant In Trial At Court Shoots Himself

Former Cascade Park Policeman R. M. McDowell, Sends Bullet Into Brain

TRAGEDY OCCURRED AT BOARDING HOUSE

Attitude On Witness Stand At Court Indicated Something To Be Wrong

Grim tragedy ended the trial of R. M. McDowell, former Cascade Park policeman for aggravated assault and battery on Ametrio Genock, when it was reported at county court this morning that McDowell had shot and killed himself in his boarding house at Youngstown. When the jury trying the case was assembled at 9 o'clock, Judge Hildebrand announced that owing to a death the case would be discontinued. The jury was then discharged.

McDowell was on the witness stand in his own defense yesterday afternoon. It was apparent to attorneys and spectators, that something was the matter. He would answer questions indifferently, yawn, and seemed to be either forgetful or worried. His listless manner indicated that he was undergoing some acute mental strain.

Took Little Interest In Case Those who were acquainted with him remarked to each other about his attitude, wondering why he did not take more interest in his case. Testifying in his own behalf he had said that he was not in uniform at

PITTSBURGH MINSTER SHOT BY DEER HUNTER

(International News Service) CLEARFIELD, Pa., Dec. 9.—The Rev. D. G. Selker, 49, pastor of the Emmanuel Methodist church of Clearfield, was killed almost instantly today when struck by a stray bullet of an unknown deer hunter. The accident occurred near Rush Township, in Centre county, where the clergyman with a party of friends was beating through the woods for deer. Members of the pastor's party saw him fire twice at a deer that broke through the brush and then heard another shot and saw him topple over. The fatal shot was not fired by any member of the clergyman's party, it was said. All maintained that the shot had come from the woods and had been fired by a hunter who either had not known the consequences of his shot or had become frightened and fled. Rev. Selker was taken to the Phillipsburg hospital but was dead on arrival there. Coroner Heaton, of Centre county, was to conduct an inquest late today.

It ain't so bad for an individual to have your favorite lose and not be able to holler. You feel bad, but you kinder can keep your grief to yourself.

But when you are sent somewhere en masse for nothing else only to holler, and then you can't, why that is what you would call organized grief. Your wretchedness is so promiscuous. You are even dressed and seated, just to draw attention to your wretchedness. Brothers, it must be — Yours,

Bishop Manning Must Appear Friday At Case Against Former Judge Lindsey

LINDSEY'S CASE HANDLED BY HAYS

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—Bishop William T. Manning was under subpoena call today for his appearance Friday in West Side court in connection with the disorderly conduct charge against former Judge Ben B. Lindsey, of Denver, militant advocate of companionate marriage.

Announcement of the service late yesterday was made by Arthur Garfield Hays, counsel for Lindsey. Lindsey, earlier in the day, was granted adjournment until Friday of hearing of the charge that resulted from his attempt Sunday in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine to answer Bishop Manning's attack against him and his theories of companionate marriage.

Hays also announced that he is considering bringing a personal suit against Bishop Manning in Lindsey's behalf. He said that his defense of the case against Lindsey will be that a church is a public place and that a man has the right to rise and defend himself in it if he feels that his character is being attacked, or his views presented unjustly.

(International News Service) SHANGHAI, Dec. 9.—Paul Baer, veteran American air pilot and former member of the famed Lafayette Escadrille, was killed today with his Chinese co-pilot and a Russian woman passenger when their amphibian west-bound airplane struck a junk mast and crashed into Whangpoo river here.

RUSH VIADUCT WORK ON PERRY HIGHWAY

In the center of the Creek, near Grant City, a huge concrete pier stands 22½ feet high. This pier will serve to support the large Perry highway viaduct that is now in the process of construction. Last Thursday, December 4, the viaduct laborers and engineers worked feverishly in order to complete the concrete pier. They worked until 11 o'clock that night and the job was completed. Lanterns and lamps were necessarily used in order to get it finished that night. All the concrete that will be used in the viaduct construction has been laid. Foundations are complete and now the men are starting the iron work. No floor slabs as yet have been laid. This viaduct over the Western Allegheny railroad tracks and the Creek promises to be one of the best in this part of the state and will be the last needed finishing touch on that end of the great Perry highway. Two 45 foot spans will be built over the creek and three 45 foot spans will be built over the railroad tracks according to Spurgeon Rees of East Washington street who has helped with the planning and supervising of the construction work. Thirteen hundred feet of paving has been laid since the work commenced. All the concrete is now down and macadam will be used on the viaduct paving. The foundation over the railroad tracks are also complete.

Democrats Want Hand In Relief Program Making

Senator Walsh, (D), Of Massachusetts, Says Democrats Should Have Sayso

REVOLT SPREADS TO SENATE TODAY

Approval Given Walsh's Viewpoint By His Colleagues In Senate

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—The revolt of Democrats against the Harmon pledge of their leaders spread on in the Senate today over the protests of administration spokesmen who insisted Congress support the President in the present unemployment emergency.

The demand of Senator Walsh (D) of Massachusetts that the Democrats propose a relief program of their own, met with considerable approval among his colleagues. Walsh declared the Democrats had become the majority party in legislation, that Mr. Hoover had abdicated his national leadership and that the Democrats should take the initiative in relieving agricultural and unemployment distress.

This declaration aroused the ire of Senator Watson, Republican leader in the Senate. "There is no need for another relief program," said Watson. "The Republican and Democratic leadership agreed to cooperate in this emergency. We agreed to take up Mr. Hoover's recommendations first and to work out a constructive program together. The president made certain recommendations which are constructive and which committees of house and senate are now considering. There is no necessity to supplant his recommendations."

While the house is taking action on this measure, the senate may pass a bill authorizing $60,000,000 for seed and feed loans to drought-stricken farmers. Secretary of Agriculture Hyde denounced the $60,000,000 bill as unnecessary, but the senate may pass it anyway.

Another bill designed to push the public buildings program was approved by the house judiciary committee. Under it the government can take title to postoffice sites during condemnation proceedings.

Rep. Wood (R) of Indiana, called his committee together to prepare for action on the $110,000,000 bill unless delays occur.

Bombings Cause Much Concern To Police In Chicago

American Furniture Mart, One Of Biggest Buildings In World, Bombed

(International News Service) CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—Two more mysterious bombings, one of which did $15,000 damage to the American Furniture Mart, one of the world's largest buildings, challenged authorities today in their drive to check the outrages.

A powerful charge of dynamite exploded at the entrance of the new furniture mart building last night, blowing in doors and iron gratings and shattering every window in the first five stories on that side of the structure.

A second bomb, the fourth in 48 hours, exploded in the front entrance of a west side butcher shop at approximately the same hour as the furniture mart blast. The damage here was estimated at $500. Tony May known as the "millionaire newsboy," died yesterday from injuries received when a bomb sent through the mails exploded in his home Sunday while he and his 15-year-old son Eugene were operating it. The boy was seriously injured.

President Says Congress Plans Are Detrimental

Issues Statement Rebuking Congress For Appropriation Program

SAYS LIMIT OF HIS MESSAGE NECESSARY

Foresees Tax Increases If Congress Goes Ahead On Lines Presented

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—President Hoover gave congress a stinging rebuke today for the manner in which it has received and dealt with his recommendations on the economic situation.

What he proposed to congress in his messages, he said, represented extreme limit to which congress could go without making inevitable an increase in taxes, and although the session is now only little more than a week old enough proposals have been advanced to run total appropriations to above $4,500,000,000.

The presidential rebuke to the congress was contained in a prepared statement which he gave to newspaper correspondents at the regular Tuesday press conference. He was plainly concerned and aroused.

Some of the suggestions that have been advanced beyond what he proposed in his messages, he said, were "ill advised" while others "are similar" (Continued On Page Two)

Small New Jersey Bank Is Robbed

Three Machine Gun Bandits Get $25,000 In Cash At Secaucus, New Jersey

(International News Service) SECAUCUS, N. J., Dec. 9.—Three machine gun bandits who robbed the First National Bank of Secaucus of between $22,000 and $25,000 were sought today. The bank which is open on Monday evenings, was robbed last night and the bandits escaped although a dozen customers and numerous clerks watched the holdup.

One of the men carried a machine gun and the others revolvers. Four bank employees were lined up against a wall with the customers, while the machine gun robber covered them. The other robbers then forced William Hulbert, cashier and William Welbach, president of the bank, to open the vault. The thieves scooped up all the cash in sight and calmly walked out of the bank in a car.

The car was believed to have headed toward New York. Police made a frantic search for the robbers but failed to find any trace of them.

Christmas is not giving presents nor sending of bright colored cards, nor is it the lighting of trees on the porch, and buying up lights by the yard. They all are important in minor degree, of Christmas they all are a part, but the real Christmas joy is not seen and not heard, it's that spirit you have in your heart. It's that feeling of peace and of joy and of love it's a feeling that money can't buy, it's the spirit that's Christmas, not money nor gifts, it's the something that you and that I should strive to lay hold of or keep it, each one, if we'd have Christmas what it should be, not presents or cards, but that feeling inside, the weather is cool, forty three.

CURRENT EVENTS '23 HEAR OF BLIND WORK

A program of marked interest was given at the home of Mrs. C. F. Flannery of 233 North Mercer street when she received 23 members and 15 guests of the Current Events of '23 in her home Monday afternoon, the evening being featured with a program carried out entirely by prominent blind ladies.

Miss Mary Moorhead, who is very well known in New Castle, having taught in our schools for a number of years, who had the misfortune of losing her sight recently, gave an excellent talk in keeping with the program, and also gave a piano and vocal solo. Her talk centered on the interest shown by the Lions club of this city, and of the many kind things being done for the blind in Lawrence county.

Mrs. Margaret Gaston, who is a Pennsylvania State teacher of the blind, was the next introduced on the program. She gave an interesting demonstration of her work in teaching the Moon and Braille system of reading and writing. Also, she had checker boards, dominoes, cards and many other forms of entertainment for those who are sightless.

Mrs. Gaston has been blind for many years and makes the round trip to Pittsburgh to her headquarters at Carnegie library in Schenley Park where she has many pupils.

A class of ladies of the city is being organized to learn the Braille system, so that more reading may be furnished for those less fortunate. An added feature was the pep singing led by Mrs. M. R. Newberry with Mrs. Wilbur Flannery accompanying at the piano.

Mrs. Eugene Morgett of the Pittsburgh branch work shop had on exhibit lovely articles made by the blind of Pennsylvania who are employed by them. Many garments made by several ladies of New Castle were among those on display.

Fifty handkerchiefs made by the ladies of the club were arranged on the tables. These will be distributed to the children in hospitals and the county home on Christmas day. Also several wool blankets will be completed and given to those in need.

A plant was taken to the county home for Thanksgiving, and a sum of money was given to the milk fund.

As a fitting close to such an enjoyable and successful meeting, the ladies were invited into the dining room where Mrs. Flannery and her aides, Mrs. L. M. Buchanan and Mrs. Wilbur Flannery, served tea. The table was beautiful with its handsome white lace cover with silver service perfectly arranged. The attractive centerpiece was formed with a large bowl of red roses guarded by four tall red tapers in silver holders, flanked with green foliage. The menu appointments and details were tastefully carried out in tones of red and white, suggestive of the approaching season.

The next meeting of the club will be held on January 5 with Mrs. F. P. Andrews of 121 North Crawford avenue as hostess.

PROGRESS TOWARDS NEW POSTOFFICE

ANNOUNCEMENT that Assistant Postmaster James G. Leslie has been summoned to Washington, D. C., as a representative of Postmaster Crawford, carrying New Castle postoffice data with him for the conference Wednesday is an indication that something definite may come of the present revival in New Castle's postoffice project.

While for many years, New Castle's need has been recognized, and has been on the verge of being provided for, this city is still on the waiting list as far as actual construction goes. The fact that the postoffice official here has been summoned to Washington with the data on the actual needs, coupled with the fact that the New Castle postoffice is in line for recommendation for an appropriation this month, revives hope of some tangible progress in the situation here.

It has been admitted that there are few buildings in any cities of the state as inadequate for the amount of mail business handled as the New Castle postoffice, and it is to be hoped that the long looked for improvement is actually near at hand.

BETTER FISHING EXPECTED DESPITE DROUGHT

Commissioner of Fisheries Buller has reported to Governor Fisher the results of his stream survey, which show the drought has produced the lowest water level in his fifty-four years of experience.

Throughout Pennsylvania, except in limestone regions where large springs have maintained a fairly good flow, water has been scarce. By forcing fish to seek the deepest pools the drought has concentrated them where they are easier prey to their natural enemies, and it has greatly limited their food supply. The loss of forage is serious; its production is a function of nature less easily replenished than the loss of fish, for streams can be restocked.

The commissioner believes the board's policy has been vindicated by the survival power of the fish. The streams were not stocked until after a careful study had shown the capacity of each to afford permanent support despite caprices of the weather and seasons. Moreover, the fish were not taken from the hatcheries until they had reached a size where they were better able to shift for themselves.

As a result of these precautions fishing next year should be much improved over what it has been in the past. In other words, the evils of the drought have been successfully combated.

SOME PEOPLE WALK

Pennsylvania's legislature, when it convenes in January, will have before it a bill authorizing the state to use public funds in the construction of sidewalks along rural state highways where pedestrian traffic warrants it. It is a phase of highway improvement to which all states with large suburban populations must eventually come as a safety measure, if not for public convenience.

There are altogether too many traffic tragedies due to the failure of the state and communities to provide for the safety of pedestrians. Even in many thickly settled communities built up along improved highways pedestrians are forced to use the vehicular highways or lack of sidewalks.

Sidewalks paralleling main highways where pedestrian traffic is heavy are as much a protection to the motorist as to the person on foot. Dead or maimed pedestrians mean trouble and expense for the driver no matter how innocent he may be, and a pedestrian suddenly loomed up in the dark has caused many motor cars to be swerved into another machine with serious if not fatal results.

It isn't a matter to be merely deprecated and dismissed. Something has to be done about it. Any highway system that fails to take into account the needs of the pedestrian is a reproach to the community.

CANADIAN HIGHWAY LINK TO ALASKA

British Columbia has been busy the past summer conducting surveys for a highway from the present terminus near Hazelton 500 miles north to Yukon Territory. Thence the Canadian government may make an extension through Dawson to the Alaskan boundary. From that point the United States could build a road into Fairbanks, a relatively short distance. The Department of Interior at Washington has just announced the appointment of a commission to study the matter.

Hazelton is 840 miles from Vancouver and 150 miles from Ketchikan in the southern extremity of the Alaskan strip along the Pacific coast. While an all-Alaskan route would thus be feasible, the fact that the Dominion is willing to assume the expense that would carry the project through British Columbia and Yukon Territory is evidence of good-will. Canada, of course, has something to gain from opening the mineral resources of the Arctic to access. But so has this country, and the contribution already made by British Columbia was hailed with satisfaction in Washington.

Fairbanks is 2000 miles from Seattle. Yet even that distance shrinks by comparison when it is said that the projected highway will tie in with the longest automobile route in the world, the proposed international Pacific highway from Fairbanks to Buenos Aires, one-fourth the circumference of the globe.

HELP YOUR HUSBY!

One of the great reasons for errors in the work-a-day life of most men is that they carry troublesome thoughts of their homes along with them when they go to work.

Not necessarily quarrels, but natural things which are disturbing come into every home.

The furnace does not operate as it should, the janitor is off duty, the sewer becomes clogged, and accident causes extra expense, and these things mull over during the day take attention away from the job in hand.

Illness in the home is hard to forget but as far as possible it must not monopolize the mind during working hours.

Requirements are stiff for those who hold good jobs, and speed counts.

There is a demand for production with accuracy.

If a worker cannot combine these qualities in his work his job is short for there is less and less sympathy in industry.

Home troubles and serious illness may detract from a man's ability to meet demands and greatly handicap him in his efforts to retain his job.

Every good wife should consider it her duty to assist her husband in retaining his place by saving him from everything that may unfit him for earning the sum which represents living expenses to the family.

GETTING ON TO CHRISTMAS

It's getting on to Christmas! The old charm is in the air: The lips are whispering their secrets everywhere.

And now the wide world over the tender hearts and true Are plotting all the pretty deeds, their pocketbooks can do.

It's getting on to Christmas, rich and poor and high and low Are gazing in the windows now with eyes that fairly glow.

And all the wide world over the lovely grandmas gray Are busy knitting pretty shawls they're going to give away.

The grandpas now are trudging down the crowded streets alone. It's plan that they are cherishing surprises of their own.

And the little children pause over now the little children pause will delight old Santa Claus.

Oh, there are weeks when selfishness and bitterness are rife, And days when hate and malice seem to mar the charm of life. But getting on to Christmas all the old souls reappear.

And the blustering world turns kindly at the closing of the year.

Hoover Has Strong Support In Selection Of Labor Head

Protest Of American Federation Of Labor Against Appointment Of Doak Gains Little Public Approval As A Matter Of National Policy

President Hoover's refusal to recognize the right of the American Federation of Labor to have continuous representation at the head of the Department of Labor in the Federal Government is strongly approved in public comments on the controversy. It is held, as stated by the President, that a cabinet position should be filled without any restriction on the field of selection. William N. Doak, affiliated with the railroad organizations, is held by a large part of the public to be qualified for the post.

"President Hoover plainly selected Mr. Doak for his personal record and qualities rather than because he represented a particular group in the labor movement," says the NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE, with the contention that "it is not the American tradition and it should not be, to select Cabinet members as representatives of particular organizations." The CHICAGO DAILY NEWS adds its opinion: "President Hoover threatens to fight the nomination when it comes before the senate. If he can show that Mr. Doak is personally unworthy of the post his fight ought to succeed. If he cannot the senate should not be swayed by his protests."

Quoting the President's statement that "he cannot consent to the principle of debarring of the railway employees or other labor unions or associations, or any labor man in the United States from the opportunity and the aspiration to obtain any office in the land," the CHARLESTON S. C. EVENING POST concludes: "Mr. Green has put his great organization in a hopelessly wrong attitude before the American people. Mr. Hoover has reiterated the American doctrine of LINCOLN STATE JOURNAL declares: "For a time people were not sure whether it was President Green or President Hoover who was selecting a successor to 'Puddler Jim Davis' and the Fool-Killer waits for us at every crisis and at every casual moment in our lives."

Changes Plea In Trial At Court

Defendant Pleads Guilty After Evidence Is Partly Presented

After the commonwealth had closed for the prosecution in the case of Paul Helling, alias Paul Merl Minter, charged with robbery by J. D. Morrison of Perry township, which was on trial before Judge Chambers Monday, Helling changed his plea to one of guilty and the jury was dismissed.

The case was one in which Helling had been employed by Morrison on his farm in Perry township. After working a short time he had quit, after having been paid the wages which Morrison believed due him under the contract.

Later it was claimed that Helling had held up Morrison at the point of a revolver and had demanded his money. Morrison gave him $150, all the money he had in his pockets at the time. Morrison testified that Helling did not wear a mask and that he was positive as to his identification.

Franklin Teacher Speaks To Hi-Y

Daniel Racioppo, Advisor Of Club Talks On Life And Its Hardships

"Build a little fence of trust around today," said Daniel Racioppo, Ben Franklin junior high instructor, in his talk to members of the Senior Hi-Y in the banquet room of the Y. M. C. A. Monday evening.

Racioppo spoke on the subject, "Are You Ready to Face Life All Alone?" The speaker gave some very good examples and advice to the club. He spoke of the life of the great physician, J. Marion, and the noted lecturer, George Wilson, both men of determination. Both of them lived their lives for others.

He brought out that the individual who goes through life without hardships appreciates life less and obtains far less out of it. He closed with the following words:

"Build a little fence of trust around today, fill it full of useful works, and therein stand. Look not through the sheltering bars upon tomorrow. God will help to bear what come of joy or sorrow."

During the business part of the meeting Robert Mills, club advisor, and William Shira, president, were both presented Hi-Y pins by the club. Plans were made for the mid-year banquet.

TO Erect Tree At Carnegie Company Playground Site

Annual Christmas Program Being Planned At Carnegie Plant

Some hundreds of children of the city will appreciate the announcement today from the Carnegie Steel company of plans to erect a big Christmas tree at the Carnegie playgrounds and present the annual Christmas treat during the holiday season.

As is other years the annual treat is being made possible through the courtesy of Robert J. Tully, general superintendent, New Castle Works, Carnegie Steel company.

On December 24, children bringing tickets to the auditorium of the Carnegie playgrounds will receive a bag which will contain candy, popcorn, and other goodies. The Christmas tree will be erected in the grounds of the Carnegie playgrounds on South Jefferson street.

An attempt will be made this year to limit the treats only to the children of the employees of the Carnegie Steel company and to the kiddies who attend the playground during the summer months. C. J. Miller, safety director, stated. Annually this company gives away something like five to six thousand treats to the children of this city.

Tickets which will be good for one treat will be given out soon, the exact date is not known as yet.

Vanished Long Horns Preserved

(International News Service)

DENVER, Col., Dec. 9.—Gone forever from the plains of the southwest are the Texas longhorns, crowded out by the efficiency of modern agriculture.

Three noted specimens of the wild species that once roamed western ranges are being preserved for posterity by the Colorado history society as the result of a gift made by W. G. Workman of Eastlake, Colo.

One set of horns given to the society by Workman is believed to have belonged to one of a herd of 5,000 cattle that was lost in Texas in 1812. L. D. Bertillon of Minneapolis, Tex., found the horns in a cave in a large canyon, while searching for a lost silver mine. The horns measured six feet, eight inches in length. Workman obtained the horns from Bertillon.

The second set of horns measured the same length as the first and were obtained in Chicago.

A third set 49 inches long was obtained in California. Workman has been a collector of long horns for many years.

Director Warns Of Slippery Highways

(International News Service)

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 9.—"A light shower may make an unpaved road slippery and very dangerous in a short time," declares Robert N. Ward, state highway director, in a statement warning motorists against fast driving on slippery highways.

"A speed which is perfectly safe when the roads are dry may be very dangerous when there is a thin layer of mud, or wet clay, on the road surface."

"Wet pavements may be very treacherous if there is a coating of dirt leaves or other absorbent material. They also are dangerous on frosty mornings and still worse when sleet storms come a little later in the season."

"The motorist who is accustomed to driving at high speed must learn to slow down when the road surfaces are icy or slippery. If he fails to do so, he is courting disaster."

Congressman Cooper Pleads For Waterways

Addresses National Rivers
And Harbors Congress
On Improving Local Streams

WOULD BE AID IN MILITARY DEFENSE

Cites Eleven Important Reasons
Why Slackwatering
Of Streams Is Necessity

(Special To The News)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 9.—Addressing members of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress here this afternoon, Congressman John G. Cooper of Youngstown made a powerful plea for recognition of the plans of the Beaver, Mahoning, and Shenango Rivers Association for the slackwatering of these streams.

Congressman Cooper cited eleven important reasons why this improvement should be carried out as soon as possible, leading up to a summary of the situation by giving a detailed history of the movement to have the Beaver, Mahoning, and Shenango rivers improved and made navigable.

Military Defense
He stated among other things, that this waterway improvement, because of strategic geographical location, would be a powerful factor in military defense in time of war; that it would speed up industrial growth in the Beaver, Shenango, and Mahoning valleys and would guaranty continuity and permanence of wages in the area affected.

In expressing the sentiment of the big delegation of men representing the Beaver, Mahoning, and Shenango Rivers Improvement Association, he outlined the fact that the territory through which these three streams flows was the third largest steel producing center in the United States.

When steel making was first introduced as the major industry of this district, he stated that the district was able to compete with other steel-producing areas in the country as far as transportation costs were concerned.

Situation Changes
During the past fifteen years, however, he pointed out that two things have happened to change the situation. These were the doubling of freight rates following the war, and the replacement of the coke industry in the Connellsville district by by-product coke ovens located at the blast furnace and steel plants.

As a result of this, steel plants located along the rivers have gained an economic advantage which cannot be met by those plants which do not enjoy the advantage of river transportation, he pointed out.

He referred to the fact that the Mississippi Valley Association, the Ohio Valley Improvement Association, and the Mississippi Valley Shippers' Association, have all endorsed the project sponsored by this Tri-Rivers Improvement association, and urged its approval as a patriotic measure.

Cites Many Reasons
His summary and conclusion, follows:

"The improvement of the existing river channels presents these advantages:

Utilizes present stream channels at lesser cost than expensive canal digging.

Removes the inequity and disparity now existent.

Probably would definitely establish an eventual River-to-the-Lake route.

Would divert to the Ohio and Mississippi River system tremendous ous tonnage which would further justify the immense amount of public funds already expended on the improvement of the said rivers.

Would introduce into the valleys area an economic factor in production and distribution which would enable the Youngstown district to share in the natural growth of the Iron and Steel industry of the country.

Because of strategic geographical location, waterway improvement in the Youngstown area would be a matter of military defense in time of war.

Completion of the proposed rivers improvement would be a proper acknowledgment of the vast sums of money which have flowed annually into governmental coffers, in return for which the government would be justified in utilizing public funds for the initiation of an improvement which would be of such vital economic import to inhabitants and industries in the district to be benefited.

The proposed improvement would speed up industrial growth, increase further expansion, stabilize real estate values, and, most important, would insure the continuance of present industry on a large scale, thereby guaranteeing continuity and permanence of wages to the industrial workers in the said area.

The rivers improvement would be a factor in flood prevention and drought control in the valleys. The rivers improvement would make available, at lessened transportation cost, large tonnage of limestone available for use by the blast furnaces in the Pittsburgh district and the Upper Ohio River district.

Should the rivers improvement be accomplished it will be the first step toward canalization of an improved waterway connecting Lake Erie and the Ohio River.

CONCLUSION

"In our final analysis of the Beaver, Mahoning, and Shenango Waterway Improvement, while we are not unmindful of the great benefits to be derived in an Industrial and Economic sense, there is one more vital importance which we should consider most seriously—the good of our country—PATRIOTISM.

"This river improvement which we hope we may be able to prosecute to a successful conclusion, is one that is interpreting the thought and plans of President Hoover, for a complete and well developed system of Inland Waterways for our great Nation.

"There is also one big factor in the construction of this project which lends itself to the President's policy of Economy and Conservation, which is the great amount of material in the channels of these rivers that can be used in building of Locks, Dams, etc., and thereby materially lower construction costs."

Clarion Project Facts Are Aired

Supreme Court Justice Holds Motion In Suit Under Consideration

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Justice Jesse C. Adkins, in district supreme court, had under advisement today the motion of the federal power commission for dismissal of the suit filed against it by the Clarion River Power Co., Johnstown, Pa. The company asked an injunction to restrain the commission from "holding" hearings upon or entering a decision as to the claimed net investment of its project.

The justice also had under consideration petitions of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the National Popular Government league for permission to intervene in the case. Both contended the water power act is in "jeopardy" as Attorney General Mitchell gave an opinion last September 22 in which he held the Appalachian Power company might be given a "minor lease" for a project on Virginia's new river which would not require it to file the costs of its construction with the power commission.

The act requires all power companies to submit this information which is used to determine the cost the government must pay to take over the property in times of emergency.

The court proceedings were instituted when the commission disputed the amount the Pennsylvania company claimed its Clarion river plant cost.

Commission Fights Against Statement

Utterance Against Pennsylvania Public Service Commission, Draws
Fire

Secretary Of War, Hurley, Gets Message Defending
Work Of Commission

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Dec. 9.—A detailed statement, defending the record of the Pennsylvania public service commission for cooperation with the federal power commission was being drafted here today for transmission to the secretary of war at Washington, in connection with an attack on the commission yesterday, attributed to Solicitor Charles G. Russell.

W. D. B. Ainey, chairman of the public service commission, last evening telegraphed a defense of the commission to Secretary of War Hurley, protesting against Russell's statements.

"According to newspaper dispatches," Ainey telegraphed, "Solicitor Russell made statements in reference to the public service commission of Pennsylvania which are absolutely untrue and without any justification of fact."

"The Pennsylvania commission has no jurisdiction over the security issues of public utilities, but nevertheless has rendered every assistance to the federal power commission in the matter of license costs of all projects in Pennsylvania."

This has been done, Ainey declared, not only in the Clarion river project, but in the Conowingo and Safe Harbor projects.

Russell's statements, according to Washington dispatches, were made during a hearing of the Clarion River Power company's suit to prevent the government from reducing its investment figures.

Chalky Williamson Called By Death

Former Pitt Football Star, And Coach At Grove City In 1921, Dies

Coming as a shock to the sport world of Western Pennsylvania, at least, is the sad news from Pittsburgh that Chalky Williamson, former Pitt football star, and lately on the faculty of Kiski Prep school, died in the Presbyterian hospital, Pittsburgh, Monday night.

Williamson graduated at Pitt in 1917, and was a member of the famous Panther eleven under Pop Warner. Williamson enlisted in the Naval Air service in July 1917, shortly after his graduation.

He was signed to coach at Westminster, in the fall of 1917, succeeding Tuss McLaughry, but his enlistment cancelled his contract with the Titans.

Williamson resigned from the Naval Air Service in 1919. He went to South America for the next two years, and returned in 1921, signing a coach's Grove City College football team. For three years, Williamson coached the Grovers returning to Pitt in 1924 to assume the duties as assistant coach to Jack Sutherland. His many friends throughout the Tri-State district mourn his death.

Bootleggers To Testify Against Police Official

Three Self-Styled Niles, O., Bootleggers Testify Against Lieutenant

OFFICER TRIED ON BRIBERY CHARGES

(International News Service) WARREN, O., Dec. 9.—Three self-confessed Niles bootleggers today were scheduled to continue testimony in the trial of Edward Kennedy, ousted Niles lieutenant of police, charged with bribery.

John Tragger and Anthony Molle, who both told the court they were bootleggers, accused Kennedy of approaching them soon after they established themselves in Niles.

"You will have to pay like all the other bootleggers," they both testified Kennedy told them.

Tell of Payoffs
Tragger and Molle related a story of four years of alleged police bribery in common pleas court. They told of payoff arrangements which had been arranged with police and of "how they took turns being raided."

The defense for Kennedy declared that he was "not guilty." Counsel for the former lieutenant told the court that Kennedy had never taken a bribe and that the present charge was a revenge plot for a raid on two Niles alleged vice resorts last October 25.

Kennedy was one of seventeen Niles residents against whom bribery indictments were returned by the Trumbull county grand jury. Six of the group are discharged policemen; nine are admitted bootleggers; and one was accused of being a payoff man.

Niles residents last November 20 made a formal request to United States District Attorney Wilfred Mahon, at Cleveland, to "clean up" their city.

Refer Applicants For Aid To Welfare Agencies Of City

Householders Warned To Beware Of Stories Told By Charity Seekers At Door

Reports are being made to the Niles residents that persons are making tours of homes of this city, putting up a plea for aid, claiming that they are not being given proper consideration by the various welfare agencies.

Some of these cases have been investigated and it has been found that the tales being told are untrue and that the persons telling the stories are misrepresenting.

The best plan for any desiring to give aid is to do it through one of the welfare agencies here, which investigate cases and then refer applicants at your door to one of these organizations.

Trial Of Alleged Intoxicated Driver

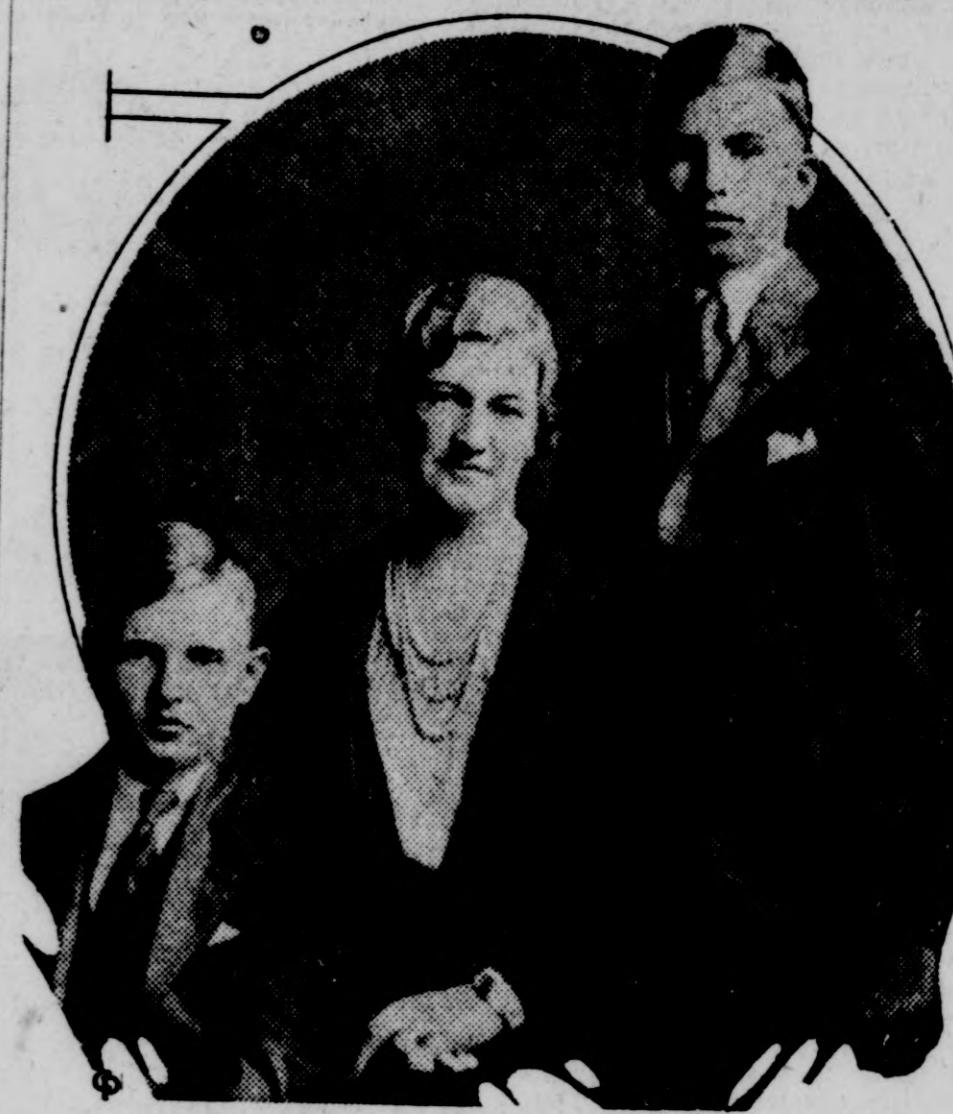

Case Against George Gudyk Taken Up For Trial At Court This Morning

George Gudyk, charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated, was placed on trial before Judge R. L. Hildebrand at court this morning. Mrs. Bertha Ann Kerber of Long avenue, was the first witness called. She testified that she had been at the New Castle hospital on the evening of October 12, and had left shortly after 10 o'clock, going to her home.

After she had retired, her attention was attracted by a rattle in the street and a sound as of escaping steam. Going to a window she saw an automobile enveloped in steam and a number of men about the machine. She called the police. When they arrived they placed Gudyk under arrest and took him to police headquarters.

Dr. Theodore R. Shrop testified that he had been called to police headquarters on the night of October 12 and had examined Gudyk. He found the pupils of his eyes dilated, detected an odor of liquor on his breath, and noticed that he was unsteady on his feet. The doctor said that Gudyk caught hold of the bars of his cell to steady himself when walking. In the doctor's opinion he was under the influence of liquor.

Several policemen and others testified regarding the arrest. The case is still on trial.

Thompson Fails To Appear Today

J. V. Thompson, Former Wealthy Coal Baron, Fails To Show Up In Court

(International News Service) UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 9.—J. V. Thompson, former wealthy coal operator, failed to appear in court at 10 o'clock today to begin serving his scheduled jail sentence for contempt of court in connection with his trial for alleged embezzlement while administering the John Nicolls estate.

From his home in Oak Hill, Thompson said over the telephone, "I have nothing to say."

When Thompson failed to appear in court Judge J. W. Dawson held a secret conference with former Judge William Prather, counsel for the Princes of Thurn and Thaxis, and Attorney L. K. Porter of Pittsburgh, who represents the Nicolls estate.

Contempt charges were made against the once wealthy coal mine owner when he failed to return money which he was alleged to have borrowed from the Nicolls estate.

Mayor's Relief Body In Session

Hear Reports Of Progress
And Suggestions For Future Action

GOOD PROGRESS
ALREADY SEEN

Members of the mayor's relief committee met in City Hall last night where further steps were taken toward relieving what distress may exist here. During the session it was reported approximately $300 of a relief fund had been raised by donation of a day's salary by city employees.

Tom Moore, secretary of the Local Order of Moose 54, asked if the committee would accept donations and at the next meeting he will ask the local lodge here to contribute toward the mayor's relief fund. In fact Moore practically assured the committee it would be glad to do so.

Mayor Gillespie said that the committee should in all ways endeavor to help those who cannot receive help from the county welfare director. He pointed out that some men who have an equity in property may be in need, but under existing law cannot draw any benefits from the county.

S. S. Pearson told of conferences he had with county commissioners who will meet with Councilman Treser of New Castle so that a work program can be mapped out. He said the commissioners have offered to provide a sum of money for the work.

The only stipulation they made, he reported, is that the men who now are receiving aid from the welfare director of the county be placed on the preferred list in giving out work. He said the appropriation will be made if Treser meets with them and work can proceed within 48 hours.

Mayberry Drycleaners were thanked for their offer to collect, clean, and distribute all clothing for the mayor's relief body and if necessary they will be requested to do this.

Volunteers are needed at the Carnegie auditorium where the central headquarters are located, it was reported.

Another Benefit
The New Castle News was thanked for free publicity on connection with a recent show at the Penn where children paid with foodstuffs to see a picture. Last night Spencer Marousis said country school children had not been able to contribute and see the picture. He has arranged to present another Saturday morning show at which city and county school children will be welcome. All must be under 15. They must bring some sort of a dry foodstuff as admission. Money will not be accepted. School teachers in the city and county will spread the word to the children.

Marousis said that if this went over as good as last week the committee would have sufficient food for weeks. He will present Clara Bow in "Her Wedding Night." Mayor Gillespie said he would personally see the school authorities and make a request for instructions to the pupils.

Adolph Lang, Jack Sines, Jason Sines, Tom O'Brien and Albert Snyder were thanked for contributing deer which were prepared and distributed by Lang. Five hundred pounds of deer meat was given away to families with no less than five children in the families.

Dr. Wayne Bissell described how much soup is given out daily under his system at the Jameson hospital. It is taken to different places for consumption. He said that it is decidedly wholesome and fattening. He said it can be made cheap, yet is wholesome and suggested distributing points.

The committee is in need of clothing, especially children's clothing and any person having clothing, which includes undergarments for small children should communicate with Orville Potter at 3106. Trucks will collect the clothing.

Orville Potter, chairman of the executive committee, reported having many calls for relief and said volunteers workers could be used at the Carnegie auditorium. He told of the collection of foodstuffs at the theatre and of it all being packed for future use. Thirty five orders were filled yesterday.

From the children who witnessed the show the following was collected: 30 bushels potatoes; 3 bushels onions; 2,000 cans vegetables; 300 jars of fruit and vegetables; 200 jars of jelly and jam; three bushels of cabbage and 250 pounds of sugar. The committee will buy bread and coffee today.

The committee will meet Monday night to hear the further reports which will include the work program, it having been reported that the city has already instituted its program and 81 of 10 went to work yesterday. More will go to work Thursday.

Shoots Young Wife; Then Ends Own Life

(International News Service)

CARROLLTON, Ohio, Dec. 9.—Insane jealousy of his girl-wife prompted Floyd Townes, 20, a farmer at Mechanicstown, near here, to shoot her through the head and then take his own life after a shot fired in an earlier quarrel had pierced the young woman's ankle, police believe.

The double-shooting climaxed an earlier quarrel which Townes was said to have started between his wife and her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Thompson, with whom the young married couple resided.

Townes felled his father with a blow which temporarily ended the family quarrel in the barn on the Thompson farm, according to police deputies. The young farmer suddenly took the Thompsons' automobile and drove to Carrollton. Police said he purchased a revolver here and then returned to the farm. Mrs. Thompson and his wife attempted to restrain Townes when he entered the door of the barn where the earlier quarrel had taken place, police said. Townes opened fire on the two women and one bullet struck his wife in the ankle.

Then, overcome with remorse for his deed, Townes helped his mother-in-law carry the wounded girl into the home.

As the young woman was being laid on the bed, Townes was said to have reached around his mother-in-law and shot his wife through the head. She died instantly.

Townes ran from the house, walked across the road to an orchard and ended his own life by firing a bullet into his brain.

The girl had been married to Townes at the age of 19 on the day of her graduation from the Carrollton high school last June.

Dads, Daughters Banquet Success

Senior Girl Reserves And Their Fathers Have Banquet
At Y. W. C. A.

Fifty-six members of the senior high school Girl Reserve club had their fathers gathered in the great room of the Y. W. C. A. on Monday evening for the delightful occasion of the annual dads and daughters banquet.

It was an event that will long be remembered by the club members and their guests. A brilliant, sparkling and interesting program was presented, following the delicious dinner served on the prettily decorated tables. The program of dances, recitations, addresses and music was arranged entirely by the Girl Reserves themselves.

Dorothy Cain and Gladys Biddle started the program off with a dance. This was followed by a reading by Mary Lou Burckart, dance by Velma Sontag, piano solo by Helen Shaffer and a tap dance by Julia McCoy.

The mistress of the evening was Dorothy Patch. She was charming and efficient and original. Jane Hawkins, president of the club, gave the toast to the fathers and P. S. Brennenman replied with a toast to the daughters.

Speaker of the evening was Rev.

C. S. Bennett, pastor of the First Christian church. His address was on the subject, "The Art of Living."

Christmas carols were sung by the entire crowd. Credit goes to the girls in charge and the people taking part in the program for the successful outcome of the event.

Advisors of the club were present as well as the Y. W. C. A. Girl Reserve acting secretary, Mrs. Helen Braun.

League Delegates On Disarmament Are Through With Work

Work Of Commission Completed With Adoption Of
Final Report For 1932
Session

(International News Service)
GENEVA, Dec. 9.—The work of the preparatory disarmament commission of the League of Nations was completed today with adoption of a final report to be submitted to a general disarmament conference early in 1932.

A brief session will be held this afternoon at which political declarations will be made, but these will not affect the commission's final report. The delegates will leave for their homes this evening.

The final session was peppered by a skirmish between M. Lunarcharsky, Soviet under-commissioner for foreign affairs, and General Kasprzycki, Polish delegate on a proposal to eliminate general reservations the disarmament formula put forward by states adjacent to Soviet Russia.

General Kasprzycki held that these reservations were of utmost importance "since neighbors of Russia have a peculiar status." Lunarcharsky took the opposite view, but a vote gave Poland victory. The delegates voted twelve to two to maintain the reservations. Turkey alone siding with Soviet Russia.

Protest Against Further Increase For State Taxes

Pennsylvania State Chamber Of Commerce Maps Out Legislative Program

SUPPORT CHANGES FOR FEW TAXES

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Dec. 9.—Strong opposition to any further state taxations, with support for changes in the direct inheritance tax and the mercantile license tax, were expressed today among plans of the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce outlined for the next term of the legislature at Harrisburg.

Robert Haight, legislative expert of the state Chamber, gave an insight into the organization's views on bills expected to be introduced that will affect business interests. More than 200 business men and western Pennsylvania industrial leaders attended a luncheon of the Chamber here today, at which State President Alba B. Johnson of Philadelphia presided.

Program Outlined
In citing the Chamber's stand on past legislative proposals, Haight outlined next year's program as follows:

"Attention should be paid by the next legislature to the repeal of some forms of taxation. There should be the repeal of the mercantile license tax and the direct inheritance tax on estates, at least to some degree. Taxation on bequests from husband to wife, or vice versa, should be reduced or wiped out, particularly as it relates to small estates.

"Old age pensions legislation will be renewed. We are still opposed to the enactment of any law which would drain the revenue of the state. Some plan of contributory insurance on the part of industry and industrial workers might change our stand. We are against the proposal of a State Pension because it would destroy thrift and initiative in the individual.

"We oppose any workingman's compensation law changes that would add to the employers' financial burden though there is no objection to a proposed double indemnity for accidents to minors illegally employed.
"Opposition to the proposed Garishee Law will be continued. It would entail a tremendous amount of work on the employer and arouse ill-feeling with the employee. We are again considering the proposal of a bill, to penalize the reckless motorists, that provides reimbursement to the victim for personal and property damage. We would modify the demands that were first proposed and that failed to become a law."
Sessions of the organization were opened by a breakfast meeting of the nominating committee and directors.

Pension Increase For Local Women

Seven Would Get $50 Per Month Under New Bills

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 9.—Seven New Castle women are named as the beneficiaries of pension bills introduced by Representative J. Howard Swick and reported along with several hundred other similar bills by the house committee on invalid pensions for action by the house in the form of an omnibus measure.

These seven are Mary J. McCommon, 84, of 416 Epworth street; Ellen J. Norris, 90, of 235 Lincoln avenue; Rebecca J. McCurdy, 82, of 736 Butler avenue; Annie E. Wallace, 72, of 221 Pearson street; Elvira Frazier, 77, of 125 Wallace avenue; Sarah J. Zerner, 80, no street address given; and Eliza R. Maginnis, 86, of 722 Chestnut street, all of New Castle.

Mrs. McCommon is the widow of James McCommon, who served in Company E, 190th Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, and Company F, Sixth Veterans' Reserve Corps; Mrs. Norris the widow of Daniel Norris of Company G, 28th Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry; Mrs. McCurdy the widow of John McCurdy, Company B, 134th Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry; Mrs. Wallace the widow of Jacob Wallace, Companies I and G, 100th Pennsylvania Infantry, and also of the army signal corps; Mrs. Frazier of John Frazier, Company G, 78th Pennsylvania Infantry; Mrs. Zerner of Franz E. Zerner, Company D, 51st Pennsylvania Infantry; and Mrs. Maginnis the widow of Luther Maginnis, who served with Company I, 140th Pennsylvania Infantry. All seven men were civil war veterans.

All seven widows are now receiving from the government a monthly stipend of forty dollars and it is the intention of these bills introduced in their behalf to raise this amount to fifty.

Also included in the omnibus report to the house is a bill which would increase the pension of Margaret A. Bauder, 85, of Rose Point, likewise from forty to fifty dollars. Mrs. Bauder is the widow of William Bauder, who fought during the civil war with Company G, 134th Pennsylvania Infantry, and Company A, Sixth Pennsylvania Heavy Artillery.

All of the bills thus reported together would be acted upon by the house as one, but members of course have the privilege of objecting to the passage of any one of the individual measures that go to make up the omnibus bill.

Councilman Stanley Treser, active head of all the work now under way by the city to aid the "unemployed" and Solicitor Robert White this afternoon will confer with county commissioners relative to an appropriation by the commissioners for work to be done in the city of New Castle.

It was reported last night that the county commissioners were ready to meet with Treser. White is the city's counsel.

Today Treser notified the commissioners he would be willing to meet with them and their counsel, Attorney J. P. Lockhart this afternoon.

It is understood the county will present a plan of improvements on which men now unemployed will be put to work.

ANCIENT TILE LION SHOWN AT YALE MUSEUM

(International News Service)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 9.—From ancient Babylon to New Haven has come by devious ways a lion constructed out of enamelled tiles, and now the figure forms a much-sought out exhibit at the Yale art museum. The lion was uncovered in Babylon in 1899 and taken to Berlin with other similar objects. In time the lion was discarded, and Yale secured it through the efforts of Prof. Paul V. C. Bauer, and Prof. M. I. Rogozzeff, both on the faculty here.

Though it was fashioned more than 2,500 years ago, the lion is in an excellent state of preservation. And Yale is the first American institution to gain such an example of ancient art.

PROSECUTOR CONVICTS, THEN AIDS

Because the attorney who prosecuted George Newton, 31, of Cleveland, for second degree murder became convinced that he was innocent, Newton has been freed from Ohio penitentiary, Columbus. He served four years of a life term. His freedom is due to Attorney Jack A. Persky, former assistant county prosecutor. Newton was convicted of killing his baby his wife had borne, two hours earlier, after the coroner testified that the child had died of strangulation. Persky convinced himself, the judge, the board of clemency and most recently Governor Myers Y. Cooper that the child had died of natural causes before Newton buried it in his back yard. Photo shows Newton, left, expressing his gratitude to Persky, following his release.

Foresee New Impetus In Freight Business Here

Business will probably take a forward spurt after January 1, and continue to improve gradually through the later winter and spring months.

That was the optimistic belief held out by the membership of the New Castle section, American Railway association, assembled Monday afternoon in Ellwood City for its customary monthly review and discussion of local freight business. Railroad freight agents comprise the organization.

Taking into consideration the conditions that exist, the agents, representing every road that operate here, reached the conclusion that while there will be no boom, freight shipments will increase. They feel that other types of business will doubtless be an improvement.

Dindinger Is Host
Meeting in the office of C. C. Dindinger, P. & L. E. freight agent in Ellwood, the agents played host during the afternoon to G. A.

Smith, who represents the American Railway association's claim department in the Chicago-to-Pittsburgh district. He spoke on claim prevention, outlining methods for the protection of shipments while in transit.

Present to discuss conditions beside Mr. Dindinger, the host, were Agents W. A. Stone, C. J. Calahan, H. E. Miller and C. A. Campbell, all of New Castle. Stone represents the P. & L. E.; Calahan the Pennsylvania. Miller the Erie while Campbell is agent for the B. & O. and P. here. F. C. Keim, B. & O. agent at Ellwood also attended.

The section voted at this time to prepare a topic based on some freight theme to present before the agents' section of the American Railway association when its national convention occurs early next year. Neither the date nor place has been announced.

Selection of the local section's meeting place for January will be made at a later date.

Dr. Fisk Gives Rule To Get Most Good From Life

Urges Constructive Rather Than Destructive Steps

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—In seeking an outlet from the boredom or confines of reality man should seek constructive rather than destructive outlets if he would achieve a ripe old age and get the greatest benefit from life in the opinion of Dr. Eugene Lyman Fisk, director of Hygiene of the Life Extension Institute.

Dr. Fisk made this plan in commenting upon a newspaper story cabled from Paris during Dr. Fisk's recent visit to Europe which quoted him as saying: "Man has three outlets: intoxication, love and work. The chief American outlet is work. Through love man may gain leisure. It is a good check on both intoxication and work. It is not a bad idea to mix the three about even."

Dr. Fisk denies that he made the statement contained in the last sentence or that this represents his views.

"I quoted a French philosopher on three escapes from reality, but said it is better to live intensely than lead a sterile, narrow life," Dr. Fisk said. "I did not say mix the three, but said work is the best outlet. I said man employs three escapes, but I had abiding faith that he would find constructive rather than destructive escapes."

Dr. Clendening's Views Confirmed By Authority From Whom He Quotes

Theories Of "Dangerous Food Combinations" And "Acid Starch Danger" Exploded, Eminent
Physician Avers

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
Complaints come to the effect that my articles do not furnish enough short cuts to dietary success.
I do not say that a certain kind of a diet is the right one and every other kind is the wrong one.

It is comforting, therefore, to find some of my ideas confirmed by eminent dietitians.

Dr. Robert Hutchinson, of the London hospital, is recently reported to have said: "Vegetarianism is harmless enough, although it is apt to fill a man with wind and self-righteousness. But it is especially unsuitable for growing children and sedentary workers." This is the doctrine I have preached for some time.

In one of the most authoritative medical journals in the world I find a recent article called "Dietary Facts, Fads and Fancies." It is by a physician in California, certainly the home of many such fads. This physician, however, is a real dietary authority.

"In general," he says, "the kind of advice most needed for adult patients refers more to the quantity of food taken than to particular constituents so often maligned."
"Diet faddists among the laity are usually those who, having found certain varieties of food which they believe useful for themselves today, advocate such foods for everyone else
regardless of conditions. Tomorrow they believe something else. Their own food fads explain everything to those who believe."

Speaking of newspaper information on diet, he says: "Reliable information has little selling appeal."
It is to be hoped he is wrong about that.

The "dangerous food combination"
and "acid starch danger" theories are exploded. "There has never been the slightest proof that foods which are harmless when taken alone can become harmful when taken together in any combination."

"In recent years we have witnessed the propaganda for whole-wheat bread. Its advocates attribute many of the ills of mankind to milling the grain which removes the bran. They assert that white bread is thus deprived of important vitamin constituents, ignoring the fact that these elements are supplied when white bread is made with milk, or eaten with butter, and in other constituents of the diet. The necessity for roughage in the form of bran has likewise been overstated. Bran is indigestible and irritating. As a constituent of the diet it is not necessary for the well or ideal for the sick. The cellulose of cooked vegetables has much more to commend it."

Remember, these are not my words, but the sober opinion of a conservative physician writing a paper not for popular consumption,
but to be read by doctors in a medical journal.

ANENT MARRIED WOMEN WORKING

December 8, 1930.

Editor News:
I want to state true facts that exist in every city and town I see and hear every day. I am a widow and have to make my own living,
which cannot be done these days,
for the married women that are working; and most of their hus-work.

I have heard half the ladies working in one local store are married.
I would be glad and happy if I only had a home and children to care for; but the ones that have it don't care for it. That is why there are so many broken homes and divorces today. Most of these women are working to get nice clothes and a car, not because it means a living to them.

I believe this matter should be investigated at once. There is talk about stopping these women from working, but so far nothing is done about it. In one home I visited, the husband and wife both work in a bank here. All I want is a living, no car.

Mrs. Gertrude Morrow,
21½ North Mill street.

Irene And Dague Appeal To Pardon Board Delayed

It will be impossible for the Pennsylvania pardon board to hear the appeal of Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague for commutation of their electric chair sentences until the February meeting which will be on Wednesday, February 18, 1931. This fact became apparent yesterday when the listings of the pardon board for the December meeting to be held on December 17 were made public. There was no appeal for Irene or Glenn listed.

Because the state administration changes in January, there will be no meeting of the pardon board in that month and the meeting in February will be the first of the new board. There will be at least one new face on the board, and possibly two. Lieutenant Governor Edward C. Shannon replacing the present lieutenant-governor, Arthur H. James, and a possibility that Attorney-General William A. Schnader may be replaced.

Decision Returned. The decision of the state supreme court has been returned to the Lawrence County courts, in which the court fully upholds the decisions of Judge R. Lawrence Hildebrand and refuses the appeal for new trial. This record must now be certified to Governor John S. Fisher, and Prothonotary Ralph M. Campbell.

Naval Committee Tackles Program

Administration Decides Not To Go Ahead With Smaller Type Cruisers

FAVOR BUILDING EIGHT-INCH TYPE

By GEORGE R. HOLMES International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—After conducting a lengthy fight last summer to convince a skeptical senate that a six-inch gun cruiser is just as suitable to American needs as the larger eight-inch gun type, the administration has now decided not to go ahead with construction of the smaller vessels.

Instead, congressional leaders were informed today that an effort will be made in the next conference, in 1936, to have the treaty amended so as to give the United States a greater proportion of the eight-inch type.

No public announcement of the administration's intentions in this regard has been made. Probably none will be. But congressional leaders in naval affairs were authorized for the statement today that the 70,000 tons of six-inch cruisers which the United States is entitled to build under the London treaty terms will not be laid down.

The $134,000,000 naval building program taken up by the house naval committee today contained provision for but one six-inch gun cruiser, and that is of an experimental type. Probably this will be eliminated before the bill is far advanced in congress.

Red Cross Board Hears Reports

Roll Call Receipts Now Total $1,300, Secretary Potter Shows

Members of the executive committee of the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross, held their monthly meeting in the chapter rooms on East street Monday afternoon, when reports were made on the nursing activities and general work of the chapter during the month of November.

Secretary Orville Potter gave a report on the County Roll Call, conducted between Armistice Day and Thanksgiving, which showed receipts of $1,300, a substantial increase over last year. A portion of this amount will be sent to the national organization for the maintenance of the program of the American National Red Cross in flood and disaster relief.

Miss Kathryn Hite, visiting nurse, showed receipts of $72, during the month for nursing services rendered, and in addition made many visits to homes, where people were unable to pay for the service rendered.

The chapter received a vote of thanks for installing the "hot lunch" system at St. Mary's parochial school. This work was in charge of Mrs. William Cosel.

Nicaraguan Vet Home On Furlough

Mike Wanner, Jr., of the U. S. S. Raleigh, is spending a fifteen day furlough with his mother, Mrs. Sophia Wanner of 716 East Reynolds street.

Wanner spent practically a year in Nicaragua as a member of the U. S. Naval Air service, and for the past two years has been located aboard the Raleigh in European waters. He has served in the Navy for the past three years.

"Healthy babies get life's best breaks," say experts

THE first few years of the child's life—these are the important formative years when his physique (as well as his habits) gets "set." Those are the years when you want to protect his health in every way. Have a doctor look after him regularly.

And in between times, no matter how healthy he appears, be prepared for little emergencies. "Vaseline" Petroleum Jelly will be a big help. It is the approved first aid for chafed skin, sunburn, minor cuts, scalds, burns and bruises.

Use it in baby's regular bath routine, too. After you dry him apply a little to prevent chapping. His nostrils should be gently cleaned with sterile cotton swabs dipped in "Vaseline" Petroleum Jelly.

A separate supply of "Vaseline" Jelly should be kept for the baby, ready for instant application. Sold everywhere in tubes and bottles. And remember when you buy that the trademark Vaseline on the label is your assurance that you are getting the genuine product of the Chesebrough Manufacturing Co., Cons'd, 17 State Street, New York.

Report Many Snakes Being Disturbed

Rocks And Woods Along Narrows Reveal Many Kinds Of Snakes

Snakes! Big ones, little ones, fat ones and skinny ones, black, garter and of the racer species; also lizards, striped in all sorts of colors. This is what is being found along The Narrows where approximately 100 of the 'unemployed list' are widening the thoroughfare.

Yesterday the workmen commenced digging into the rock and as soon as they made excavations, snakes commenced to squirm.

Contrary to expectations they were not in a coma and as fast as they squirmed and wiggled for safety the men caught 'em.

For instance, let Bill Morris of West Falls street tell his story:

"I caught a racer, about one foot long. It was black with a yellow ring around its neck."

"As the nature students in school study all sorts of life, I took this racer home."

"It got away from me. It's in the house somewhere, but I can't find it."

And then another workman: "I took one home. I didn't tell my wife. I let it down on the floor. Oh, boy, you should have heard her yell 'Snake!'"

"That snake didn't last long. I stepped on it. Goodbye snake," said he.

And thus goes the story of snakes of all moderate sizes, and colors. So far no rattlesnakes or copperheads have been found.

Several big lizards have been uncovered. Some are marked differently.

One racer snake caught today was placed in a can. One of the workmen exhibited it to a News reporter who travelled to The Narrows.

Closing Hours For Holiday Set

Members of the Better Business Bureau at a meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms this morning, decided to remain open during the evening Christmas holiday rush starting Wednesday, December 17.

The stores will remain open until 9 o'clock each evening until Christmas.

The meeting was presided over by Vice-president, Detace Cole, in the absence of President Emanuel Shenkan, who is in Washington with the local delegation of waterways boosters.

S. D. Brady Case Is Before Court

Samuel D. Brady, charged with fraudulent conversion, was placed on trial before Judge James A. Chambers this morning. The charge is brought by Jack Stewart, who claims that prior to January 27, 1930 Brady owned a car and on that date leased it to Jesse W. Blackburn. Shortly thereafter he assigned his bailment lease to the Central Acceptance Company and was paid $700. Later Brady is alleged to have taken the car, selling it to William Fehl and applying the proceeds of the sale to his own use, instead of the Central Acceptance Corporation.

Two Contagious Cases Reported

Two causes of contagion today were reported to Dr. William L. Steen, health officer for the city of New Castle. Leslie Wooly, of 202 Etna street, has scarlet fever according to one report and Mary Hastie, 20, is a typhoid fever patient in the New Castle hospital, according to another report.

After the hostess served dainty refreshments, Mrs. Modella Clark, reported that the club will have a Christmas party on December 22, the place to be announced later.

Bible Class The Bethlehem Bible Class of the Second Baptist church will meet Friday evening at the parsonage.

P. L. D. Reading Circle The P. L. D. Reading Circle met Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Carolyn Williams of North Beaver street. The election of officers occurred with the following results: President, Mrs. Blanche Dillard; first vice-president, Mrs. Mary Clark; secretary, Mrs. Ethel Wall; treasurer, Mrs. Belle Scherger; chaplain, Mrs. Mary Coffey; assistant chaplain, Mrs. Rebecca Baker; reporter, Mrs. Elizabeth Thomas; assistant reporter, Mrs. Grace Boyd; critic, Mrs. Millie Johnson.

Special guests were Mrs. Stewart of Indianapolis. At a selected hour, the hostess assisted by Mrs. Ester Young, Mary Shannon and Jean Williams, served refreshments.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

Newspapers Are Educating, Says Dr. Myers

Pupils May Be Taught Arithmetic From Journals

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education,
Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

I once wrote an article for a magazine for teachers which I called "Arithmetic From the Daily Newspaper." To show the teacher what an opportunity she has for making interesting and up to date, I picked up my morning paper and wrote seventeen problems from it. The child who solves such problems made from the daily paper will see a good reason for learning arithmetic.

In that same morning paper were many facts on geography, science and civil government. Just through a newspaper to observe the news from the important cities of the world. When a child tells you that geography is of no account to him, put a newspaper into his hand and convince him in a minute. If spelling is distasteful, fire his imagination by leading him to see how good a speller one must be who writes the copy and reads the proof of a newspaper. If he finds it hard to write a composition, let him see how readily the reporter tells what he has seen and heard in the columns which he writes for the press.

True, he gets some things reported incorrectly. Set a class of children to describe an exciting incident which occurred on the playground. Have these papers read so that all may see how widely the children have differed in what they reported. Then you and your children will come to be surprised that the average newspaper reporter is so accurate.

When your children, say of junior or seniors high school grade, compare their own composition with a column from the front page of the morning paper, they will acquire considerable respect for the man or woman who had written that column. And then when they make another comparison, this time with an editorial, greater still will their appreciation be of the ability required to write as does an editor.

If I were a teacher I should use the newspaper columns and editorials frequently to stimulate better composition work. I should take the pupils to a newspaper plant and have them meet some of the people who write copy for it, and have such newspapermen come into the school to relate their personal experiences.

I know some good teachers who stimulate their children to make scraps books of news items of certain kinds as a part of the school assignment; one who, for example, requires such clippings on matters of scientific interest. You can hardly find a newspaper which does not contain such useful matter. Cross word puzzles and numerous other exercises offered by the daily paper have considerable learning value.

To be sure, much appears in the newspapers which you do not want children to read. Say nothing about it. Turn their attention to those many things worth while. Lead them to find pleasure and pride in selecting the best. Think of the opportunity teachers and parents have to train children to read the newspaper with discrimination. He gets most out of life who learns best to select from his environment those things which will be most useful. The newspaper is a vital part of the environment of every person. Why should the school not give guidance for its use?

Asserts Million Aliens In Country Now Illegally

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Declaring 1,000,000 aliens were illegally in the United States, Senator Hayden (D) of Arizona, Monday afternoon secured senate adoption of a resolution calling on the labor department for a report.

The department was requested to estimate the number of aliens illegally here, how many of them can be deported and what additional appropriation would be necessary to deport them, and whether additional legislation is necessary.

Hayden said he had heard that 300,000 aliens entered the country illegally since 1924.

Senator Davis (R) of Pennsylvania, former secretary of labor, was out of the chamber during the discussion.

The late lamented John Roach Straton's big boy, Hilmyer, crashed into print the other day, quoting the Wall Street Journal to the effect that what the country needs to curb gangster rule and to promote honesty in business, is a revival of piety.

Things aren't any too sweet just at present; but bad as they are, they're infinitely better than they would be with the members of the Federal Reserve and the Board of Governors of the Stock Exchange calling "time out" every afternoon for meditation and prayer.

Rules For Cold Weather

"There are many people who dislike cold weather. With their vitality under par, and natural bodily resistance consequently low, such persons shiver, complain and loudly praise the sub-tropical sunshine. And, as if that were not enough, they attempt to beat the outside chill by habitually forcing up the inside temperature way beyond the safety mark," said Doctor Theodore B. Appel, State Secretary of Health, today.

"Cold cowards, barring actual illness, largely have themselves to blame. Instead of pushing the indoor heat up to an unhealthy degree, they should assume a more friendly attitude toward themselves and thus develop more heat within their own bodies. Having done so, Old Man Winter instead of being viewed as an enemy to comfort, will be considered in his true light: as one capable of being immensely enjoyed and as a real boon to health and life.

"The method to follow in order to 'cash in on winter' is by no means a complicated one. The rules indeed are quite simple. But this fact alone is perhaps more responsible for a lack of followers than is any other element. The whole matter merely resolves itself into abiding conscientiously and daily by the following basic rules: 1. Exercise in the open—a four mile walk in the snappy, zippy air is one of the finest methods to carry out this injunction; 2. Sleep eight hours each night in a well ventilated room with enough but not too much bed clothing; 3. Eat what you like but in moderate quantities; 4. Abandon the excessive use of stimulants and avoid devitalizing habits of all types; 5. Keep the eliminative processes of nature in going order; and finally, strictly maintain the indoor temperature between the health limits of 68-72 degrees.

"Those who possess the gumption to carry out these rules daily will in a very short time realize that winter's blasts, instead of being painfully cruel, are as a matter of fact most friendly and pleasant. Red-blood corpuscles and the surging joy of well-being react marvelously to the cold, crisp atmosphere.

"However, aside from the enjoyment element, one must also consider the question of safety. Colds, pneumonia, and other maladies dig in under the thin veneer of a devitalized system quickly, often with sad results. And adopting the hot-house principle in homes is an excellent, easy and entirely too comfortable a way of developing these consequences.

"It follows, that over-heating the home and under-heating the body is an unsafe and frequently a devastating rule to follow. Most Old Man Winter, therefore, with shoulders squared, chest out, chin up. And thus play with, rather than against him. Make him your friend and he will be a great friend to you."

Hard Times Brings Revival Services

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 9.—An unusual phase of present "hard times" has made itself apparent recently in Greene county, where no less than 10 different religious and revival services are being conducted daily. A record number, observers claim, to be conducted concurrently. All are being largely attended. The unusual attendance and interest are attributed to the present depression.

Gibson Disappointed By Disarmament Work

"Nothing Accomplished"
Says American Ambassador Addressing Conference

Four Years Work On Draft
Of Report Fails To Show
Concrete Agreement

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Frank Gibson, American ambassador to Geneva, expressed his disappointment over what has been accomplished in the preparatory conference for the Geneva disarmament conference was expressed by Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson representing the United States, when he addressed the conference in its closing hours today.

Gibson's speech was cabled to the state department and made public here.

"For four years we have been endeavoring to reach an agreement," he said.

"We have now completed a draft convention which, after study by the governments, will go forward to the general conference. I should not like to say that this draft falls far short of our hopes and expectations. It fails to contain many factors in which we have always believed and which in our opinion would lead to a real reduction of armaments. What we have achieved does not hold out the promise of bringing about that immediate reduction of armaments we would like to see. Make no mistake: it is not my purpose to belittle what we have done.

Comfort Found

Although our hopes may thus be disappointed we can find comfort in the measure of agreement which has been reached in this commission. We can at least foresee a stabilization of armaments, the setting up of a machinery to receive and disseminate information on armaments, to educate public opinion and to prepare systematically for the work of future conferences, as successive milestones in the continuing process of disarmament. If these things can be achieved by the coming conference, and from present indications I think we are justified in assuming that they can be achieved, we shall have a situation obviously better than we have at present and, while we cannot claim to have built the edifice, we shall have at least laid the foundation upon which the edifice can be erected.

"It is possible that the coming conference will accomplish more than this, but if so it will be because our labors have been improved upon and because, after mature study of the problems involved and after weighing the consequences of failure, the governments come to the conference resolved on greater measures of concession than the delegates here have been authorized to make.

"I hope that in separating at the conclusion of our labors we shall not yield to the temptation to indulge in mutual congratulation, that we may separate with becoming modesty, and on reporting to our various governments, that we do so with a full and frank recognition of the shortcomings of our present draft, of the duties and responsibilities still before our governments to lead the general disarmament conference to the success which our peoples earnestly desire."

Gallo Sends Hoover Unusual Drawing

Original Work Is Forwarded To President By Local Man

Antonio Gallo, aged 61, of the Wilmington road, former business man of the city, has an unusual talent for drawing with pen and pencil and has just sent to President Herbert Hoover, a very unique, pretty and artistic sample of his work.

The drawing sent to the president is in a highly ornamented type of Roman letters and figures, original in their conception with Mr. Gallo.

At the top is the name of President Hoover centered on a picture of the president. It also bears the name and address of Mr. Gallo in the same highly ornamentative lettering. Mr. Gallo has not yet received an acknowledgment of the gift but no doubt will in a few days.

He is now engaged in completing a similar drawing, which he proposes sending to King Boris and Queen Giovanna of Bulgaria.

Each of these drawings contain the facts that Mr. Gallo was born in 1869 in Campofelice, Italy and came to this country in 1896.

This gift or ability to draw these wonderful creations of pen and pencil was developed by Mr. Gallo when a school boy of fourteen in Italy.

When he came to this country, he forgot all about it. In recent months, not being particularly busy, he felt the urge to resume this work and has been quite busy ever since.

He had two sons and a daughter, at least one of whom, he hopes to teach this art. Mr. Gallo will be remembered as a former well known wholesale produce merchant of the city.

Propose Vast Garages Under City's Streets

(Detroit News Service)
DETROIT, Dec. 9.—Construction of immense spacious garages beneath Washington boulevard, Cadillac Square, Grand Circus Park and Madison avenue, at a cost of $7,500,000, as the solution to the downtown Detroit parking question has been proposed to the city by common council.

The underground garages, it was estimated, would provide for from 3,000 to 4,500 cars at any time. A fee would be charged by the city which, it was estimated, would pay for the building cost in 20 years.

NEW LONDON DEVELOPS EDUCATIONAL CENTER

(International News Service)
NEW LONDON, Conn., Dec. 9.—Residents of this ancient seaport town are beginning to contemplate with pride the fact that they are developing an educational center probably unequalled for a town of New London's size in this country.

The Connecticut College for Women, with a score of Georgian buildings, is already in full operation and adding years as well as attendance.

The Allyn Museum, a group of buildings in the Colonial style, are either up or being erected.

Then a $2,500,000 coast guard academy is soon to be started in the same area as the college and the museum to give Uncle Sam a third service school, ranking with Annapolis and West Point, built to harmonize with the other educational structures in the district.

Laments Loss Of America's Crack Seamen

Poor Pay And Lack Of Incentive Keep Men
From Sea

(International News Service)
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 9.—American seamen used to be the best in the world, but the "breed is dying out," Andrew Furuseth, head of the Sailor's Union on the Pacific Coast, declared in an interview here, lamenting the passing of the oldtime hardfisted seaman.

Himself typical of the "vanished seaman"—tall and gaunt, eagle-beaked and eagle-eyed, Furuseth is largely responsible for the present Seamen's Act, designed to encourage young men "to go down to the sea," as a lifetime vocation.

"Poor pay and the lack of an incentive have kept men away from the sea," Furuseth said. "The sea doesn't offer much nowadays, but it used to be a realm of hidden adventure."

At the present time, there are possibly 3000 real able seamen on the Pacific Coast and the same number on the Atlantic Coast while from 35,000 to 40,000 are needed.

Wherever seamen foregather the world over Furuseth is known. He is 76 years old and has sailed the seven seas, but for 35 years here in San Francisco he has been working for the welfare of seamen, chiefly American seamen.

"I'm a Norwegian, and went to sea when I was seventeen," Furuseth said. "It's in the blood of the Norwegians. I sailed about everywhere that ships go, around the capes and into strange harbors in strange lands, but that's all past. I'm interested in the present."

In 1923 Furuseth went to Washington to advise with Congressional committees in the passage of the Seamen's Act, which was largely his molding. It was intended to make American seamanship a better field for American youths.

"For a time there were many new recruits," Furuseth said. "Then the boys no longer wanted to go to sea, and American seamen have been slowly vanishing from the ports of the world."

"Poor pay and no chance to learn anything are the chief causes."

"The average 'sailor' today isn't a sailor at all. He is recruited by employment agencies and hired by a landlubber who wouldn't know a sailor if he saw one."

"It used to be that the masters were allowed to pick their own men, but not any more. The result is that a lot of so-called sailors on ocean liners don't know a capstan from a scrubbing brush, and can't even lower a boat in a calm sea."

"The American merchant marine is going down hill constantly in the skill and experience of the men who handle the ships."

"When a disaster like the recent sinking of the Tahiti in the South Seas occurs it is lucky for those on board the doomed vessel that there is a crew of real sailors on board, and not a lot of transported landlubbers. There were real sailors aboard the Tahiti and also on the Ventura, which made the rescue. If they hadn't been experienced, there would have been a different story to tell."

Furuseth said that conditions would improve if ship operators would offer better pay to seamen and restore the glamor of adventure for those who elect to follow the sea.

Driver Makes Escape; Police Get Booze Car

Activity of Officers Robert Dukes and Hanna in following up a tip concerning a car reported to be en route into the city with a load of liquor, resulted early this morning in the capture of the car and more than twenty gallons of moonshine, but the escape of the operator of the car.

The officers, acting on the tip were enroute west on Washington street at the public square for the road on which the loaded car was expected, when they noticed the car they were hunting, going east on Washington street.

The police car was immediately turned in pursuit of the car and followed it. The trail led down South Mill street.

The liquor laden car had not gone far when apparently the driver became aware of the fact that he was being followed.

Suddenly he stopped his machine and jumped out and started running toward South Jefferson street. Officer Hanna started in pursuit, while Officer Dukes assumed charge of the car and its cargo.

Several shots were fired in the air by Officer Hanna in the effort to stop the flight of the driver, but he made good his escape.

The officers found four five gallon tin containers filled with liquor in the car. The liquor was removed to the police station and the car to a garage.

The license number on the car was PG327 and the police say that it is listed in the name of Arthur Albertini, 823 Lathrop street. Efforts of the authorities to locate him at his home or elsewhere has so far proven of no avail.

Officer Lockard on investigating the machine at the garage, found that it had a secret compartment under the floor of the machine. This compartment had a funnel arrangement for pouring liquor in it and a spigot conveniently placed to draw off the liquor. A gallon and a half of moonshine was drawn from this container and is now in the police station.

In the meantime the authorities are seeking to establish the ownership of the machine and the liquor confiscated in it.

Reached Monday

At a full session of the Grove City college board of directors with members of the college's building committee Monday afternoon in Pittsburgh, a decision to re-advertise for bids for the proposed $250,000 boys' dormitory was reached, it was learned today.

According to the official action, advertisements will go out immediately and bidding contractors required to submit their estimates at once. It is understood a few changes in the building plans are contemplated.

Twelve contractors had submitted price figures when the board advertised for estimates a short time ago. They were opened, but no decision was ever made known.

The conference yesterday, held in the office of W. L. Clause, president of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company and chairman of the college board was attended by R. A. Eckles, this city, representing the Eckles architect firm here which drew up plans and specifications.

The new dormitory will be one of the most magnificent of campus structures in this section when completed, it is said.

HIGHLIGHTS OF HISTORY

By J. Carroll Mansfield

26. George Rogers Clark—Clark And The Indians

LATE IN THE SUMMER OF 1778, A HORDE OF INDIANS FROM ALL PARTS OF THE NORTHWEST—CHIPPENAW, OTTAWAS, PUANS, SAUKS, FOXES AND POTAWATOMIES,—ERSTWHILE ALLIES OF THE BRITISH, FLOCKED TO CAHOOKIA ON THE ADVICE OF THE FRENCH TRADERS TO TREAT FOR PEACE WITH COLONEL CLARK AND HIS "LONG KNIVES".

(Copyright, 1930, by J. Carroll Mansfield)

CLARK SAID: "I MUST CONFESS THAT I WAS UNDER SOME APPREHENSION AMONG SUCH A LOT OF DEVILS." BUT HE HID HIS FEARS BEHIND A MASK OF UNCONCERN, WALKED BOLDLY AMONG THE INDIANS AND TRIED BY VARIOUS RUSES TO MAKE HIS LITTLE FORCE APPEAR MUCH LARGER.

HE HAD GROUNDS FOR DISTRUST AND ALARM. ONE NIGHT A PARTY OF PUANS TRIED TO SLIP INTO HIS QUARTERS AND CARRY HIM OFF. THE ATTEMPT WAS THWARTED BY THE WATCHFULNESS OF HIS SENTINELS AND THE LOYALTY OF THE FRENCH, WHO SPRANG TO ARMS TO DEFEND HIM.

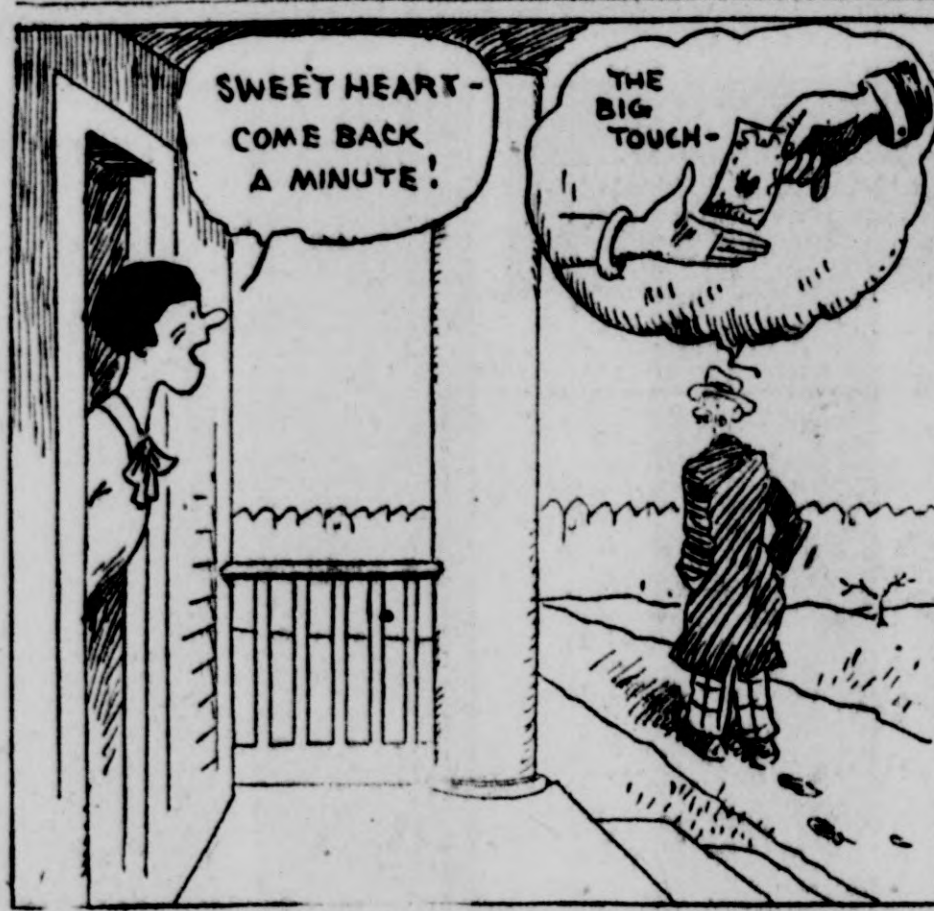

ALTHOUGH THE TOWN WAS FULL OF REDSKINS WHO MIGHT TURN ON HIM AT THE SLIGHTEST PROVOCATION, CLARK WITH DARING COOLNESS HAD THE GUILTY PUAN CHIEFS SEIZED AND PUT IN IRONS. CLARK'S PROMPT ACTION MADE A PROFOUND IMPRESSION ON THE OTHER CHIEFS AND DISCOURAGED FURTHER TREACHERY.

Provide More Jobs Thursday

Two Hundred Men To Be Given Employment
By City

STORM SEWER JOB WILL BE STARTED

Progress toward widening of The Narrows has been made and it is anticipated that by the time the second contingent of New Castle's unemployed finish this week's work, considerable widening will have been accomplished.

Early this morning the men who swung picks and used shovels all day yesterday reported for work. Some of them were sore but all happy and they bent to their task with a willingness that exceeded the most enthusiastic hopes.

As they sank the picks into soft or hard dirt, they whistled and as they picked at the shale, which came tumbling down, they smiled. Wheelbarrows filled to the top carried the dirt from the west to the east side of the road.

At the far end, or where the big hillside protruded over the road—is a noticed improvement. The Narrows has been widened considerably there and a dirt bank of, say, five feet wide has been made on the east side.

And all along The Narrows the widening goes on. In some places there is rock, other than of a shale nature. This will be removed and the rock used as a foundation on the east side of narrow way.

Formerly there were only two turnouts or "passing sidings" to use the railroad vernacular. Today along the thoroughfare there are places where two cars can pass for hundreds of yards.

Promptly at 12 noon, Councilman Stanley Treser with Policeman Charles Longstreth arrived at the scene of work. In the police car was considerable soup—plenty for the men who were working.

The whistle blew when Treser lustily shouted: "Soup!" The men dropped their implements, raced for the police car and presented receptacles into which the hot soup was poured.

And the men liked Doctor Wayne Bissell's preparation, made from good, wholesome foodstuffs. "Ah, boy," said a man who had served with the British army in the World war. And then came the smiles after it had been tasted.

The men are working steadily. They are not loitering. They are demonstrating that they do not want charity. In fact they're not receiving it along The Narrows. They are earning their salary with pick, shovel and wheelbarrow.

The contingent now at work will cease work, for the present, Wednesday evening when a contingent of another 100 go to work. They will take up where the present crew takes off.

Today Councilman Treser stated: "I am mailing out 200 letters today."

"These letters are going to the unemployed. They are numbered from 101 to 200 and 201 to 300."

"The men who receive the letters with yellow tags will report at Meyer and Highland avenues at 7:45 a. m. Thursday."

"Those who receive letters with red tags will report at The Narrows and Rural avenue intersection, at 7:45 Thursday morning."

"No others need apply."

"The city intends to start building a storm sewer in Meyer avenue. The work along the Narrows will be continued."

Treser also stated that all the men should bring a container so that they can get the hot soup at lunch time.

Today, some of them had the tops of dinner buckets. Others had bottles but it was found the bottles' openings were not large enough.

Treser suggested that a quart jar or a quart can, properly cleaned, would be a good receptacle.

Close Pennant Races Will Aid Baseball, Is Opinion From Dreyfuss

Owner Of Pittsburgh Pirates Wants Something Done About Lively Ball

Is Satisfied With Manager Ens, Team Could Use Couple Of Pitchers

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Sports Writer
Copyright, 1930, By International News Service

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—"Give us a good tight pennant race in the National League—and in the American League, too, for that matter—and baseball business will be fine in 1931. I am not worried at all about this talk of economic depression."

Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who has been active in baseball since 1892 and who has been through one big league "crisis" after another in the past forty years, made this statement in an interview today. I found Dreyfuss, a small, sharp featured, kindly old gentleman standing among the palms in the lobby of one of the hotels in the "roaring forties" where the National and American League magnates are holding their annual convention.

Dreyfuss was right at home. For all around him in the crowded lobby, were the most famous men in baseball, chatting among themselves about player deals, the home run epidemic, the draft controversy and other subjects of direct interest to them.

Dreyfuss had come "loaded for bear" and ready to battle against the home run epidemic, it was said. He is going to have his say before the magnates on the subject.

Ball Too Lively.

"The ball is too lively, in my opinion," Dreyfuss told International News Service. "In the twenty years prior to 1909 only two balls were hit over the right field fence in Pittsburgh for homers. They were hit by Outfielder Stenzel and Tim Jordan of Brooklyn. Now they hit two or three over in a single game."

Dreyfuss said he was for peace, rather than war, between the majors and the minors on the draft issue.

"The draft should be retained in baseball," he said. "Players are entitled to advance in their profession. All minor league clubs up to 1920, agreeable to the draft up to 1920, and it was a mistake then when some of the minors were told they could stay out if they wanted."

"Baseball men should not be split into factions. We should be all one big family. What helps one, helps another and by the same token what hurts one hurts another."

Minors Needed.

"The minors need the minors to develop ball players. It is cheaper than trying to develop them ourselves. I realize others think differently—the St. Louis club for one, with their numerous 'farms.' I think I know, however, for I have tried both ways. Pittsburgh has only one 'farm'—Wichita, Kansas, in the Western League."

Declaring that if the pennant races are close in 1931 business will be good, Dreyfuss pointed out that Brooklyn and Chicago drew big crowds last year because they were "up there" all the way and that St. Louis started drawing in an important way after their winning streak on August 9.

Dreyfuss Satisfied.

Asked about the prospects of his club for 1931, the Pittsburgh owner said:

"I am satisfied with the team as it stands. We were going fine at the finish of the race last year. We were crippled the first three months of the race. We had no less than eleven operations."

"We need a good catcher and could take a pitcher or two. The infield and outfield is first class and we have plenty of reserve strength."

Dreyfuss explained that he signed Jewel Ens as his manager for only one year because that is his policy. He explained: "If Ens has a good year it will react to his benefit. If he doesn't it won't. I feel the same way about ball players. I believe in signing men for one year only."

New Castle High Opens Floor Season Here Friday Night

Senior High Quintet Will Meet Wilkensburg High In Season Opener

New Castle high school basketball team will open the 1930-31 basketball season here on Friday night against Wilkensburg high at 8:00 o'clock. This announcement came from Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner of the high school this morning.

Regular practices started on Monday afternoon at the senior high gym. Just what kind of a lineup the locals will present against Wilkensburg is not known yet. The floor season will find some good basketballers ineligible at the end of the first semester. Luther Rowe, Francis Waucho, and John Grommes will play only the first semester with Regis McAuley playing until February 8. These boys with the exception of Grommes were members of last season's five which captured 20 out of 21 contests.

Mr. Gardner is busily engaged at the present completing the schedule for this season. In the W. P. I. A. L. league the locals will be members of Section Three.

Dick Shikat Is Finally Beaten

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—Patience has its reward today. Dick Shikat has finally been flattened and some 10,000 fans were eye witnesses.

For two years the good citizenry have been cramping their way into wrestling shows in hope of seeing the leering, sneering Richard whipped. But unlike East Lynn, they never saw the villain collect his just deserts until last night.

Jim McMillan, was so painstaking in his desire to please the gathering that the former champion needed medical assistance before he was assisted from the ring. The fall required thirty minutes and fifty six seconds.

Weir Picks Best Tackles On 1930 Football Teams

EDWARDS Washington State
SINGTON Alabama
HALL Southern California

By ED WEIR
All-American Tackle—1924-1925.
Written Exclusively for Central Press and New Castle News.

In discussing this year's crop of tackles throughout the country, I have judged them by their ability to measure up to the requirements that go to make up a man fitted for this position.

An outstanding tackle should be well proportioned physically, weighing close to 200 pounds and around six to six-two in height. Often when they are much bigger than this they are generally not active enough on their feet and when they are much under this mark, often times they can't take the beatings that a tackle must take.

He must be grounded in the various types of offensive football because the tackle occupies the key position which most offenses are aimed at. They either try to go inside of him or outside.

He should be able to get down the field under punts with the ends as most teams plan to send three men down on the first count, and by "first count" I mean the tackle doesn't stay in the line to block, but goes down when the ball is snapped, and most teams send the best of the two tackles down with the ends. That means, of course, that he must have more than average speed. It's a large order, but there are some players who measure up to these standards this year, as there are every year.

The tackle usually finds two men "working on" him. The wingback and end are usually trying to block him out of the play. That means he must have big and active hands to ward off not only these two assigned to him, but he must be able to wade into the interference and as much as he can to pile it up and if possible, make the tackle.

Sington of Alabama. Alabama has a big boy, Freddie Sington, who has played a great role in that team's great season. Sington, is a powerhouse in himself, not only stopping plays that come his way but managing to get around and haul down from behind some that are intended to go the other way.

Glenn Edwards, a Washington State junior, who weighs 215 and stands six-two, is another outstanding performer who aided materially in the Cougars' Pacific coast championship.

Hugh Rhea of Nebraska is one of the mid-west's best. He stands six-one and weighs 216, and is fast on his feet. Rhea is the National A. A. U. junior champion shot putter and has gotten better than 50 feet in competition. Rhea never saw a football until he enrolled at the Husker school. He is playing his second year on the varsity and went great guns this season.

Milo Lubratovich has been one of the Wisconsin Badgers' best players throughout the season. He is a senior, weighs 216 and stands six-two. Wisconsin will miss him next year.

Robert Hall, a junior, has aided Coach Howard Jones mightily at University of Southern California. He's a 211-pounder.

John M. Price, Ft. Dodge, Ia., is one of Army's best. He weighs 220 and stands six-three. He's a junior.

Other Fine Tackles.

Although Princeton had a ragged season, W. H. Yeckley managed to stand out despite the mediocre showing. He weighs 190 and stands six feet, one inch.

Francis (Fay) Vincent, Yale tackle, is somewhat smaller than most men in this position, but he's been playing a fine game. He weighs 197 and is five-eleven, having the "barrel type" build and hard to hurt.

Colgate has a pair of fine tackles in A. C. Schiebel, 215-pound six-foot, and Howard Crane, 220-pounds, six-foot-two giant.

Crehan of Dartmouth weighs 197 and stands six feet, is another fine tackle.

New York university has in Ernest Concannon of Waltham, Mass., a mighty fine performer. He weighs 184 and is six feet tall.

This list would not be complete without the addition of the names of such fine tackles of the season as:

Van Bibber of Purdue, Foley of Fordham, Bowstrom of Navy, Marvill of Northwestern, Marce of Georgia Tech, Cronkhite of Kansas Aggies, Draveling of Michigan and Schwieger of Washington.

Lively Ball Discussed By Baseball Magnates

All Agree, That Something Must Be Done, To Diminish Number Of Home Runs

Many Suggestions Made For Curbing Terrific Swatting That Featured 1930

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—The hue and cry against the home run epidemic and the lively ball filled the air as the big league baseball meetings got under way here today.

With President Barnard and several American league club owners, and a few national league magnates on the warpath against the pop-fly home run, indications are that some sort of action may be taken to curtail abnormal batting.

Opinion as to the best method of procedure varies more than a flock of Congressmen discussing farm relief. Some club owners favor a zoning system for home runs. Another wants the distance from the pitcher's box to the home plate reduced. Other suggestions are that changes be made in the manufacture of the ball and bat, that the playing field be narrowed slightly, and that chicken wire be erected atop short fences where dime-a-dozen homers are plentiful.

Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, is the leading advocate of the zoning system. He believes that any fair flies knocked out of the lot at a distance of less than 300 feet from the home plate should be ruled doubles.

Want Zone System.

Dreyfuss has an enthusiastic supporter in Clark Griffith, whose Washington Club must play half its games in a park where distant outfield barriers make home runs as rare as a lunch wagon steak, while the Washington fence busters are vainly trying to knock the ball out of the pot during a home stay, Ruth,

Gehrig and Co. have the short right field fence at Yankee stadium as a target.

Col. Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, naturally is up in arms at the idea of making any changes in the playing field at the house that Ruth built. Legislation against home runs carries a singular lack of appeal to the good Colonel, as long as he is shelling out $80,000 to the bantam for performing his well-known specialty.

Brooklyn also is opposed to curtailment of home runs. The Giants do not favor the zoning system, but want the grasshopper law abolished. St. Louis likes the zoning idea.

President Heydler of the National League believes the increase in home runs has been caused in part by the popularity of lacy bats with thin handles. The big league home run output last season totaled 1,559 a far cry from the boys when a player who hit a dozen four-baggers a season was declared as a mighty slugger.

Marcellas Open Floor Season On Wednesday Night

South Side Merchants Will Oppose Marcellas In First Game Of Season

Marcellas basketball team will open the 1930-31 floor season by meeting the South Side Merchants on Wednesday night at the Savola gym on Home street.

The Marcellas will use this floor the entire season through the courtesy of the officials of the House of Savola. Both quintets have been holding workouts for the past weeks in preparation for this contest. Merchants will have on their lineup such prominent floor stars as Neyman, Kulick, Parker, Harris and Kulha, while the Marcellas will be made up of F. Marcella, Marino, V. Marcella, DiThomas and Richards.

Shenango To Play Darlington Tonight

East New Castle Quintet Will Try For Third Victory Of Season

Shenango high school basketball team with two victories already to its credit will try for the third straight triumph when the East New Castle five takes the floor against Darlington at Darlington tonight.

Coach "Pop" Johnston was pleased with the showing his boys made in defeating Harlansburg last week. The East New Castle boys are in good condition for this tilt.

Rodgers Quintet Seeking Games

The Rodgers basketball five, of Slippery Rock, desires games with all first-class semi-pro and independent teams in New Castle and vicinity. The Slippery Rock team can assure any team of a fast encounter. They have won three games so far this year, and have not been defeated.

The victi—so far are the Jacksonville Indies 49 to 9, Grove City Ex-High Stars 29 to 25, Clintonville High and Church team, 34 to 20. For games with the Rodgers team call Slippery Rock 48-K and ask for David C. Rodgers, any time after 5:30 o'clock in the evening.

WITH TRI-STATE COLLEGE CAGERS

Westminster's basketball outlook suffered a serious setback recently when Danny Considine, former Akron St. Mary's star, had his collarbone broken when he collided with Philip Rice in a mixup at the Titan gym. Considine's loss will be keenly felt this season. He is tall and rangy and was to have been used as a forward. He showed promise last year in his first season on the blue and white squad.

Geneva will open the 1930-31 floor season on December 31 by Meeting Lehigh at Beaver Falls. The easterners are making a trip to the western section of the state and will meet Geneva among others. Coach Loeffler has a likely looking squad at Geneva this year and they are bent on taking the tri-state title. Fair, Manning, Sole, Martin and Montgomery make up the first team.

The Covenantors outside of the Tri-state conference will meet the following teams: Lehigh, Gettysburg, St. Thomas, Catholic U., Muhlenberg, Carnegie Tech, Grove City, West Virginia, Duquesne and W. & J. The Geneva schedule is a very good one. In all there are 24 games awaiting the team. Montgomery is captain of the team this year.

Allegheny college with almost the same team that represented the school last year, will take the court again this year with renewed confidence. Garbark, Varano, Berger and Conn are the stars. Dennison and Anderson are also in the running for varsity jobs. The Gators are trying to arrange a game with the Westminster team at New Wilmington. The Titans will play at Meadville in February.

Coach Carlson is ruling with an iron hand down in Pittsburgh. Not even the greatness of Eddie Baker, star guard on the 1929-30 team, could make Carlson change his mind. Baker wants to play basketball, but also wants to play football with the all-east team against the west in California. Carlson gave Baker his choice, and thus Baker will not don a Pitt Panther uniform this season. Pitt lost the first game of the year to Western Reserve. Charley Hyatt is sorely missed.

Thiel is starting to practice basketball, and it is no secret up in Greenville that the Lutherans are going places this year. With Wardie, Myers and Prampton as the nucleus, Coach Rowley is not going to have such a hard time forming a first-class combination. The Thiel boys seldom win, but they do have a habit of making it unpleasant for the league leaders.

SORDS POINTS

Expect Lindstrom To Shine In Center Field

Center field may seem an odd position for Freddy Lindstrom, the New York Giant who made such a name for himself playing third base, but Freddy is almost sure to be seen in that position regularly next season unless he is traded.

Fine as Lindstrom was at the hot corner Manager John McGraw apparently has come to the conclusion that third isn't really Fred's spot. A great hitter, Fred is temperamental and at times has been badly bothered in the pursuit of his duties at third by injuries.

St. Mary's Athletic Body Holds Smoker

Rev. Fr. Nee, Athletic Director, Issues First Call For Practice

Sponsors of St. Mary's A. A. basketball team enjoyed a "smoker" last evening in the basement of St. Mary's church where a speaking and musical program was rendered and plans set afoot for the five to soon swing into action. The first practice, it was learned, will be held Wednesday night at the old church property where a new hardwood basketball floor has been laid.

Father P. J. McKenna, pastor of St. Mary's, welcomed the sponsors and Rev. Fr. Dudley Nee, athletic director, outlined the plans for the team. He will be the coach.

Attorney George W. Muse spoke on amateur athletics and welcomed the newest comer to the basketball field.

Major Guy Wadlinger stressed the necessity of maintaining a high ideal of sport and pointed out that to win the game is not the only vital point connected with any athletic contest.

Rev. Fr. Clifford had charge of a musical program, featured by Steve and Jack Griffith. Leo Logan and Tom Morrissey also participated and Bob Latara staged a four-round boxing exhibition between Johnny Banko and Ray Ritchie.

Joe Graham, president of the association, presided.

Greenville To Play
Central Christians

Greenville Methodists will oppose the Central Christians of the Church basketball league in a game to be staged Wednesday night at the Y. Recently the Greenville team defeated the Central Christians. Greenville is composed of former Thiel college players.

A preliminary game will be played at 7:30 p. m. between Wesley M. E. and First Baptists of the B loop of the Church league, the game having been postponed from Saturday night.

Union Ready For Evans City High Wednesday Night

Coach Boyd Sends Union High Basketballers Through Severe Workouts

Union High School basketball team will pry off the lid on their 1930-31 floor schedule Wednesday night, at the Union High gym, by meeting the strong Evans City High quintet. It will be the first game of the year for both teams.

Coach David Morgan Boyd, hopes to have the Unionites in shape to hold the Butler Countians to a low score. The Union squad has been cut to twelve men. In cutting the squad Boyd hopes to be able to give each man more individual attention.

Union has four good forwards fighting for the starting jobs, Lannigan, Jaworski, Zarembo and Campbell, and Boyd could pick either pair of the four and still be right. At center two boys are fighting it out for the starting nod, Augustyn and Mateja. Augustyn being the taller of the two may get the assignment, but Mateja is a scrapper and will be heard from.

Material Is Good
Four good guards are fighting for the varsity berths, they are all Sophomores. The guards are—Severa, Snizek, Allen and Phillips. Every man will be given a chance in the Evans City game to see how they act under fire with a first-class outfit as the opponents.

The scheduled arranged for Union High this year is the longest and toughest that they have ever attempted. It contains 22 games, eleven at home and eleven away. Ten of the games will be with Class B County School teams. Union has an eye on the championship this year.

Evans City will bring a veteran combination here. The Butler County boys are members of the same section of the W. P. I. A. L. that New Castle is in, and for that reason Boyd is anxious to make a good showing against the older and more experienced opponents. The game shapes up as a real attraction for the curtain raiser.

NON-SKID DRAINER
Put a ten-cent rubber mat under the dish pan or drainer that you stand on the drain board. It will prevent skidding.

Carnegie Five After Contests

The Carnegie basketball team, winner of last season's midget title, desires games with teams ranging in age from 15 to 17.

Games are especially desired with Wampum, Harlansburg, East Brook Bessemer and Mount Jackson. For games call 2167-J. The Carnegie quintet is composed mostly of last season's players who include the following: J. Ross, V. Gallagher, J. Campbell, F. Vignal, D. LaRocco, I. DiGennaro, H. Venditto and R. Palus.

Marcellas Will Practice Wednesday

Charity Game Will Settle Question Of Supremacy Between Two Teams

It was announced this morning that the admission price to the Marcella-Croton football game on Saturday at Taggart Field will be 25 cents. The gate receipts will go to the unemployed of the city. The contest is an important one in football circles here as the winner will be the 1930 independent champs.

The South Siders will hold an important practice on Wednesday night at the Savia gymnasium. The Marcellas will take the field Saturday with new uniforms.

The game will decide a question of supremacy between these two eleven. Throughout the season these teams have boasted of being better than the other. A game was played with the score 6-0 and again the two teams were in the air as to the best combination.

HOW TO BUY USED CARS
There are just two ways of selecting a used car. One of them is making a few haphazard calls on second hand dealers, probably passing up the best buy of all. The other is by checking through the used car columns of this paper, noting what appears to be the three or four best buys, and making your selection from among these offers.

U. S. Steel Stock Shows Well In Market Today

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—Rallies in the Steel, Automobile and Specialty stocks near the first hour today brought the general level of prices slightly above that of Monday's close. The Utilities were under pressure as the session started. But the bears found comparatively little stocks for sale at bottom prices. New York Central dropped off to a new low at 119, but rallied to 121 before the end of the period. U. S. Steel showed its heels to the bears as the stock advanced from 140 1/2 to above 142. Wall Street heard that the monthly advance-shipment report and the Iron Age's report on Steel production tomorrow would show good increases and that other evidence would be supplied of the definite upward trend of the Steel industry.

Consolidated Gas, which opened at 83 1/2, rallied to above 85, leading the recovery in the Utilities. Electric Light and Power stocks sold higher. Stocks of the Telephone companies displayed a weak tone, with International Tel down a point at 24 1/2 and American Tel and Tel down 1 1/2 at 182 1/2. The market slowed up in the second hour and showed much better resistance to selling than in the last three sessions. Breaking down of the negotiations for the merger of four big banks into a new billion-dollar institution was held responsible for the new outbreak of selling since Monday morning. All markets were dull and quiet near the noon period. Railroad bonds and convertible industrials continued their decline, while commodity prices held steady. Call money was unchanged at 2 per cent.

BEAR TOO ROUGH TO SUIT WRESTLER

(International News Service) KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 9.—The Kansas City zoo now boasts a real wrestling bear—for several years the sparring partner of Everett Marshall, La Junta, Col., heavyweight wrestler. Marshall donated the bear to the zoo here, explaining the animal had developed a temper which was out of bounds, even among heavyweight wrestlers. The bear was given Marshall several years ago by a cowboy in Colorado and until recently the two held daily wrestling matches. In its last appearance with Marshall the bear well nigh crushed the wrestler, the latter being rescued by several onlookers—and thereby lost a steady job as sparring mate but gained a softer berth in the zoo here.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

The young lady may have forgotten to put them on, you know how it is, and certainly it's none of my business anyway, sez you, but strictly between us she didn't have any hose on this morning.

Which seems to be carrying a fad a trifle far, or is it? What I'm getting at is this. She has all the right in the world to run around the streets with no hose on if she feels so inclined, but why make the rest of us feel chilly? And then again perhaps, it's a case for the welfare organizations. But, the expensive fur around the neck kills that idea.

Company today, Don C. Seltz, formerly managing editor of the New York World, now an author and public speaker is with us for a bit on his way to New Wilmington where he speaks tonight.

His book "The Also Rans" deals with those men who missed the presidency and many of them came under his personal observation as a newspaper man.

The days of hurrying to make an edition are over for the distinguished gentleman. He can take his breakfast in bed now if he cares to and nobody to say him nay. Instead of writing pieces he is now writing books, and instead of telling reporters what to do, he is now telling audiences how it's done. And getting paid for it.

This idea of widening the roadway through the Narrows is a good one. There isn't a much prettier drive on a summer evening than up the Narrows across the river to the Paper Mill and on up the Hill into Croton.

There has always been more or less danger on the dirt road because of its width, but with 100 men swinging picks and shovels up there for a few days there is going to be a difference.

Some of the work will require blasters, for there is young mountain of solid rock to be moved. All that has to be done is to transfer the rock from the one side over to the other, and you have a comfortable roadway.

Up on Winter Avenue the folks are digging out those colored electric lights. Every Christmas this street has almost 100 per cent of homes lit up for the season, and in the past several years Winter avenue has been about the prettiest on the hill.

Some of the other streets made a valiant effort to outshine Winter last year and made a pretty job of the try, but they still have a little to do to finish ahead.

It seems to me that Christmas lights on the porch or in the yard is one of the most inexpensive ways of disseminating the Christmas spirit. Somehow it indicates to the outside world that here are people who have the Christmas spirit, that in this home peace can be found and that they are willing to share that peace with others.

That municipal Christmas tree is another idea that fills a need. Just an old custom perhaps, but one that we need. Youngsters underneath the bows singing Christmas carols, bands playing and a lot of folks being human to one another. A bit of old fashioned perhaps, but it's the kind of old fashioned ideas that we need to keep alive.

When entertaining your sewing club, put two or more fancy waste baskets where everyone can reach them easily. The scraps will be more likely, then, to be dropped in and save litter on the floor and chairs.

For a different flavor try adding a little maple syrup to the apples you are baking.

Brown of Wampum, James Pollyblank of Marietta Lodge No. 237, Mt. Jackson, Alderman H. G. Coates, Clall Springer, district deputy grand chancellor in Lawrence county, Henry Moltz, William C. Hess, J. Jackson, member for fifty-one years, William C. Hess, member for more than fifty years of Robert Blum Lodge, and Alderman H. G. Coates, charter member of Amazon lodge.

At the conclusion of the session of the lodge, a social time was enjoyed during which refreshments were served by the committee in charge of the successful event. The members of the committee in charge consisted of W. E. Howard, H. G. Coates, G. G. Horchler, R. F. Horchler and R. G. Clark.

Finds Laughing Easy

Miss Takhoubie Vratzian

"I find it so easy to laugh in America," says Takhoubie Vratzian, an Armenian girl who heretofore had found little cause for mirth in her life. Her parents were massacred by the Turks, and she herself put in an orphanage in Beirut, where she met Miss Bertha D. Morley, who became her guardian. Later driven out of Turkey she escaped to Salonika, whence she came to America, and now is attending Lake Erie college at Painesville, O.
